Volunteers Help Provide Food Security by Kelly Leavitt

A group of local volunteers makes a big difference each week for residents of Mentone, Valley Head, and Hammondville who benefit from the Food Ministry of St. Joseph’s-on-the-Mountain Church in downtown Mentone. Some of the volunteers are members of St. Joseph’s, and others are not. What brings them together week after week, year after year, is an impulse to be of service and to be sure no one suffers from food insecurity.

The Food Pantry at St. Joseph’s has grown out of a long history with the church’s longstanding grocery cart ministry. Many years ago, Ann Chestnut, on behalf of the church’s outreach ministry, established a relationship with the Food Bank of North Alabama (FBNA). This Huntsville-based agency secures donations of food from major retailers, transports it, secures and stores it, and then provides it at a greatly reduced cost to approved organizations.

Every other Monday, Jim and Joan Byrum and Ron and Marsha Merrell take turns travelling from Mentone to Huntsville to “shop” at the food bank and then delivering the food to the church’s pantry. On Tuesdays, volunteers meet at the church to sort these items, in addition to other things which have been donated. Wednesday is pick-up day, when those who qualify for the FBNA program come to the church to pick up supplemental food for the week.

Usually (i.e., pre-COVID-19), they are able to come inside and “shop,” choosing items based on their personal needs and desires. In response to the rise in coronavirus cases in March 2020, the Food Pantry implemented a drive-through distribution system to reduce personal contact between volunteers and shoppers. Boxes of food that are pre-packaged on Tuesday afternoons are delivered by volunteers directly to the shoppers’ cars. Volunteers wear protective masks and have access to hand sanitizer and wipes.

According to the U. S. Census, from November 25 to December 7 (including Thanksgiving), 2020, 27 million adults—13 percent of all adults in the country—reported their household sometimes or often didn’t have enough to eat. Alabama’s Department of Public Health claims that around 23 percent of children and 17 percent of adults in Alabama currently struggle with food insecurity.

As defined by the U. S. Department of Agriculture (USDA), food insecurity “means that households were, at times, unable to acquire adequate food for one or more household members because they had insufficient money and other resources for food.” This is an economic condition, not to be confused with “hunger,” which refers more to a physical or emotional state.

The USDA states that “food security means that ‘people have access, at all

MAPA Continues to Adapt to the Times
Rhododendron Festival Canceled . . . Golf Tournament Announced

For the second year in a row, due to the ongoing coronavirus pandemic, MAPA’s board of directors made the difficult decision to cancel the organization’s Rhododendron Festival. The annual festival is held on the third weekend in May, which means volunteers are usually busy during the months of January through May. With the numbers of people affected by the virus still being high, the board decided it cannot ask community members to take any risks. The board’s foremost concern is the public’s health and safety, so once again MAPA will “pivot” and offer a spring charity golf tournament.

Colorfest, traditionally held on the third weekend of October, was also canceled last year. Since both festivals serve as MAPA’s main fundraisers, the board organized a charity golf tournament on October 10 to supplant the funds lost by the cancellation of the festivals. Everyone had a great time, and it was so successful that the event actually raised more funds than had the previous Colorfest.

MAPA’s event coordinator, Sharon Habin, is currently planning the second charity golf tournament, which will be held on Friday, April 23, at Lil Mole Golf Course in Mentone. (The rain date is April 30.) A four-person scramble format will be followed. The registration fee, which includes green fee, shared 2-person cart, and lunch, is $75/person or $300/foursome team through April 8; $85/person or $340/foursome team after April 8. DeSoto Rescue Squad will once again serve lunch, allowing the squad to raise funds needed to continue offering its valuable services to the communities of Mentone, Valley Head, and Hammondville. Teams may begin signing up on February 4 at mapamenteone.com/golf. Sponsorship information is available at mapamenteone.com/sponsors. Space is limited, so it is advised to register early!
Mentone Matters • by Mayor Rob Hammond

Representative Nathaniel Ledbetter and Senator Steve Livingston invited Alabama Department of Economic and Community Affairs Director Kenneth Boswell to meet with local officials in DeKalb and Jackson counties. On January 7, Director Boswell came to Mentone, had lunch, viewed the route of the new sidewalk, and discussed possible future projects for Mentone. The town would like to thank Representative Ledbetter and Senator Livingston for bringing Director Boswell to Mentone!

Every public official at the local, state, and federal levels should make vaccine distribution the number one priority for the country. All of now know family and friends who have been very ill or have died in this pandemic. It is hitting close to home. Vaccines will save lives and livelihoods. The roll out has been slower than expected. This should improve in the coming weeks and months. In the interim it is crucial to continue to wear masks, social distance, and wash hands.

Dear MAPA Member,

On behalf of the board of directors of the Mentone Area Preservation Association (MAPA), I hope this finds you well. As you are aware, 2020 was an extraordinary year. Our annual membership meeting and other MAPA activities were canceled in order to protect as many people as possible during the current pandemic. The purpose of this letter is to keep you apprised of the board’s activities as we determined how to navigate through the pandemic, and to let you know how we are preparing for the coming year.

January was a time of analysis of 2019’s Colorfest. We reviewed all aspects of the festival and began preparing for May’s Rhododendron Festival. Preparation involves inviting festival artists and vendors to submit applications, sorting out problems from the last festival and correcting them, finding new sponsors and contacting past sponsors, securing volunteers from the community, finding stable and cost-effective shuttle transportation, and planning advertising and promotion. This is only a small part of the work done behind the scenes before a festival can take place. It is a process that takes months of dedicated work.

In February, everyone became very aware of the seriousness of Covid-19 and MAPA made the painful decision to cancel the Rhododendron Festival. Event organizer Sharon Habin had been in close contact with public health officials as she monitored the contagiousness of the virus. When the spread worsened and the means of spreading the virus became more clear, it was obvious that the festival had the potential to be a super-spreader event, especially because we must rely on shuttle transportation. The board takes the well-being of everyone seriously and even one person contracting Covid-19 by attending the Rhododendron Festival would be too many. We still had hopes for holding Colorfest in October.

One of MAPA’s main activities is providing financial grants to local organizations in need. In order to be able to fund these grants, we rely on membership fees, fundraising events, and advertising revenue from The Groundhog, a MAPA publication. Due to the financial uncertainty created by canceling the Rhododendron Festival, in March the board tabled pending grant applications. However, two small grants to Ryleigh’s Closet and the DeSoto Rescue Squad were approved earlier in the year. We will continue to hold the pending grant applications until we know how 2021 will look financially.

The MAPA board did not meet during April or May but resumed meeting in June, gathering at Mentone’s Brow Park so we could maintain social distancing. At that meeting, the board realized the virus was not abating and voted to cancel Colorfest. It was suggested that a golf tournament at Lil Mole Run could be a fundraising solution and a committee was formed to pursue that possibility. August, September, and October were spent planning the tournament, with the enthusiastic cooperation of the owners of Lil Mole Run. The outdoor venue and natural social distancing allowed the event to be held safely. Additionally, all participants were offered masks customized with MAPA’s logo.

We were delighted that the tournament raised more money than the last Colorfest. We added over $5,000 to our bank account! There was such a great response that MAPA is planning two golf tournaments in 2021. In addition, we were delighted to receive a $2,000 grant in December from the DeKalb County Development Commission. That and the golf tournament result really improved our financial outlook for the future.

The Rhododendron Festival will not take place this May due to the continuing pandemic. The Miss Rhododendron Pageant, however, will be held, following the same online Zoom format we used in 2020. The continuation of the pageant means that one young woman (“Miss Rhododendron”) will receive a full-year scholarship to Northeast Alabama Community College. To submit an application, look for announcements soon on the MAPA website—mapamentone.com—and in upcoming issues of The Groundhog. A decision about holding Colorfest will be made later in the year, as more becomes known about progress against the virus. We have high hopes.

Currently, we are in the process of developing a completely new website for the community. The website will keep residents and visitors aware of anything that pertains to Mentone and the surrounding areas. For example, there will be links to interesting historical sites, restaurants, lodging, churches, shopping and things to do. Along with The Groundhog and other established resources, this new website should keep everyone “in the know.”

We would like to assure you that publication of The Groundhog will continue. We were able to keep going through the early days of the virus through the innovative efforts of our editor, Kelly Leavitt, and the support of our small businesses. In April, during the earliest phase of the pandemic, The Groundhog was published online only. Once in print again, delivery to our distribution points was handled with caution.

Small businesses—our advertisers—were and still are having their own difficulties because of Covid-19. In the months of April and May, many advertisers received deep discounts on their ads in order to assist them in their cash flow. We will continue to publish the paper by working with our advertisers and being sensitive to their needs. We believe in the worth of The Groundhog, as it provides not only news about the community but also brightness in this less-than-bright time.

If you receive your copy of the paper in the mail, check your label for the expiration date of your subscription. The form to renew is in the paper itself, or you may renew online at mapamentone.com. We do not want you to miss any editions of this paper.

The MAPA board of directors works for you. We honor our purpose of “the preservation and protection of the heritage, natural environment, and other unique qualities of life in the area of Mentone, Alabama.” We welcome any input from our members. We hope to hold our annual member meeting in 2021. Some board positions will be up for election. If you are interested in serving on our board of directors, please let us know. We will announce the meeting once it is safe to gather in groups again.

In closing, please know that we are largely able to continue serving the Mentone community because of the support of our members. If you did not renew your membership in 2020, we invite you to do so now. MAPA is a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization, so memberships are tax-deductible. Additionally, MAPA greatly appreciates any donations you may give that are over and above the membership fees. Any additional funds will allow MAPA to continue to serve despite any decrease in revenue that will occur from cancellation of the festivals. To renew your membership, visit mapamentone.com/membership.

Feel free to contact us at mapamentone@gmail.com if you have suggestions or concerns. We wish you a healthy 2021 and much happiness.

MAPA News by Mark Hoffman

The following letter was sent to the members of MAPA in January 2020.

As I am writing this, a misty cloud lingers and continues to envelope the mountain, filtering through the woods and laying a wet blanket over the ground. It’s beautiful! Not sure if the flatlanders are getting so lucky today. Well, it’s beautiful and wonderful if one is warm and dry in the house without the need or desire to venture out into the day, as is my current situation. That will not be the case, however, on Friday, April 23. I will be at Lil Mole Run Golf Course assisting Sharon Habin (our event organizer extraordinaire) and my fellow MAPA board members in our efforts to make our upcoming Spring Charity Golf Tournament a success, and as much fun for all of the participating golfers as possible. One of those could be you.

Please set the date aside and put together a team and come out and play. Details and how to register can be found in the article on page 1 of this issue. Let’s hope that the misty clouds now surrounding me decide to move elsewhere on that day—an abundance of sunshine is welcome!

Thanks in advance for your support. If not sooner, I’ll see you at the course. Meanwhile, let’s try and keep it in the shortgrass in our daily lives. Be safe and healthy.

Mark Hoffman is the president of the Mentone Area Preservation Association.
Helping Neighbors

At a minimum, this includes: 1) readily available, nutritionally adequate, and safe foods and 2) assured ability to acquire personally acceptable foods in a socially acceptable way.”

It is because of the commitment by those who are able to help that our neighbors may feel “food secure.” In the first quarter of 2020, the pantry served an average of 35 households per week. By the end of the fourth quarter of 2020, the average was 47 households per week.

In spite of the stresses associated with COVID-19, the Food Pantry at St. Joseph’s has continued to open every Wednesday, distributing a variety of foods, toilet paper, pet food, and often coffee. During the days in 2020 when toilet paper became scarce, Father Bill Winters, rector of St. Joseph’s, issued a call for “TP” in his weekly email, and St. Joseph’s family and friends responded. Shoppers at the pantry now receive at least one roll of toilet paper each week.

The pantry is not allowed to spend use its food budget on pet food, but, again, thanks to donations of pet food and cash to buy food by animal lovers such as Katie Bird and Wil Henry Cobble, it is available each week. “Pet food would arrive at the church, as if by magic,” said Food Pantry Chairman Jim Byrum. “The same thing happened with toilet paper.”

According to the St. Joseph’s Food Ministry annual report for 2020, Riverview Camp for Girls donated several large boxes of individual-size bottles of hand sanitizer, so for several weeks each shopper received a bottle in their food box. Moon Lake Baptist Church made several food donations, as well as a $100 donation. Mentone United Methodist Church continued their monthly $200 donations (divided between the Food Pantry and the Snack in a Backpack program). Cove Road Baptist Church continued to send their $50 monthly gift. Food donations were made by Camp DeSoto and Camp Laney.

In mid-March, when schools in DeKalb County closed in response to the COVID-19 outbreak, students at Moon Lake Elementary and Valley Head Elementary were left without the meal they would have received during the school day. St. Joseph’s partnered with the Mentone Community Church and others in the community to provide a daily meal for all students in the area from March through the first of June.

In May, Joan Byrum and St. Joseph’s parish administrator Melinda Baugh prepared and submitted a grant application to the Community Foundation of Northeast Alabama requesting funds to purchase fresh produce from local farmers. In June, the application was approved and St. Joseph’s received $2,450. From June through September, fresh locally grown produce was purchased from The Farm at Windy Hill, Mountain Sun Farm, Jones Farm, and Phillips Farm and Garden.

The pantry’s largest food donation in 2020 came from a volunteer with the City of Refuge in Dalton, GA. St. Joseph’s parishioners Pattie and Warren Coppedge were contacted by Tim Costlow, a City of Refuge volunteer, who wanted to donate several pounds of dried black beans—2,150 pounds of beans. (Yes, that’s over a ton of beans.) Father Bill has since delivered 1,000 pounds of black beans to Episcopal churches all over northeast Alabama and the beans have been (and will continue to be) a part of the food boxes well into 2021.

In September, a local trucker whose mother is a food pantry shopper arranged a donation of about 700 loaves of sour dough bread. One of the pantry’s shoppers has contacts with a Sand Mountain chicken hatchery and was able to secure close to 200 dozen eggs during the year. The pantry continued to receive produce, baked goods, and packaged foods from the Upper Sand Mountain Parish in Sylvania, a partnership generated by Jan Newhoff. The DeKalb County Sheriff’s office shared corn, tomatoes, squash, and other produce from the county jail’s garden.

The DeKalb County Council on Aging made 25-pound boxes of food available at no charge to residents of Mentone, Valley Head, and Hammondville. St. Joseph’s served as a distribution site for several of these deliveries. The largest distribution occurred on September 17, when volunteers from St. Joseph’s and Valley Head distributed 210 of those boxes, which were provided through a USDA COVID-relief grant.

“Since we’ve moved outside, we’ve had several folks stop by to ask what we were doing or what we were ‘selling,’” said Jim Byrum. “After explaining, some would leave a cash gift and a ‘God bless you.’ One elderly gentleman stopped by regularly for about a month and would leave a $10 donation on each visit. During the summer, The Farm at Windy Hill brought flowers, which everyone enjoyed. Even some of our male shoppers seemed to enjoy them but might not admit it.”

St. Joseph’s donates $2,000 from the church’s annual budget. Members of the church and other donors give cash funds through the year that is delegated to the food ministry budget. Additionally, in January, 2020 a monthly program has been added this year providing monthly grocery boxes, juices, and cheese through a USDA program and facilitated by the council on aging. These boxes are provided to clients in need due to financial eligibility. Currently we are distributing 25 boxes a month. We hope to see our allotment increase in the new year. J.D. Trammell has been instrumental in the monthly transport of these large food boxes, along with assisting in other county-based food programs.

The year ended with the St. Joseph’s Episcopal Church Women (ECW) purchasing hams and preparing gift bags and Christmas stockings for every household served by the Food Pantry. Gift cards to Bruce’s Foodland were also provided to each household. Father Bill added candy canes to each stocking and promoted a campaign to add gloves and socks to the stockings.

The St. Joseph’s Food Pantry would not be possible without the dedicated volunteers who work without complaint to prepare and distribute food boxes, pick up food from Huntsville and Sylva, stock the shelves, bag up pet food or potatoes, break down and recycle boxes, and do whatever else has been needed to make the program successful. “Although the year has not gone as we would have liked it has been a rewarding and positive year in many respects,” said Jim Byrum. “Thanks to all of our volunteers, Father Bill, and Melinda, the church secretary, St. Joseph’s Food Pantry was able to assist families during a very unusual year when the need was greatest.”

Food recipients are determined by eligibility in a variety of ways. Those who prove eligibility to receive support from the Supplemental Food Assistance Program (SNAP/food stamps), Temporary Assistance to Needy Families (TANF, formerly AFDC), Supplemental Security Income (SSI), or income at or below 130% of the poverty level as determined by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHs), or those who have special circumstances (fire, flood, illness, injury, etc.) can contact Melinda Baugh at 256-634-4476 or email stjom@centurytel.net.

If you would like to volunteer or donate to St. Joseph’s Food Ministry, contact Melinda at the above phone number or email. Single servings of non-perishable items such as meat, vegetables, soups, fruits, and beans are especially welcome.

Meals on Wheels Program

The Meals on Wheels program is coordinated by the Top of Alabama Regional Council of Governments (TARCOG) and the DeKalb County Council on Aging. It provides a weekly box of frozen meals and fresh milk to area seniors who are unable to prepare meals due to health, mobility, and financial restrictions. Volunteer Domenic Fulginiti coordinates pickup and delivery to the seniors in our area who are unable to prepare meals for themselves or make the trip to the senior center in Ft. Payne. Father Bill Winters makes regular donations to the Council on Aging from St. Joseph’s discretionary fund to assist with the cost of the program. This is a valuable program for our area’s seniors, many of whom are on a very tight budget.

In 2020, the total number of clients fluctuated between 14 and 22 clients. The Meals on Wheels program currently serves 18 elderly clients in our community. This includes 14 frozen meals and four shelf-stable meals per week. Currently, four frozen meals are delivered directly, four frozen meals are dropped off at town hall for pickup, and the remaining six frozen meals and four shelf stable meals are stored in the St. Joseph’s Food Bank room for distribution at the Wednesday Food Pantry pick-up. Additional shelf stable meals have been provided for frozen meal clients as part of pandemic relief. A moratorium has been placed on the limitations of the number of clients the program is able to serve during the pandemic.

Storage restrictions for the Food Pantry and Meals on Wheels have been alleviated with the addition of a new freezers acquired by the DeKalb County Council on Aging for both their facility and St. Joseph’s.

Emergency Food and Shelter Program (EFSP)

EFSP is a federally funded program that provides assistance with emergency needs for food and shelter. This includes utilities, such as metered electric, water, and propane gas. Residents of M VH and H who need assistance with utilities and also meet the eligibility requirements for the Food Pantry may contact Melinda Baugh at 256-634-4476 for more information. This program is administered in DeKalb County by the Community Action Agency of Northeast Alabama.

Open most Wednesdays from 9am to 4pm.

The Groundhog 5
Winter is a time of stillness, peace and quiet atop Lookout Mountain. The symphonies of the insects and frogs are silenced. Often the only sounds you hear outdoors in the winter are from the wind, such as a gentle breeze, branches dancing in the wind and swaying up against one another, or the wind whistling or whipping about. The echo of the train in the valley, a cow mooing in a nearby pasture, a dog barking, songs of the birds, the call of an owl or the howl of coyotes sound sharper and more crisp in the mountain winter air. The scenery also shifts to take on a new beauty in the winter, allowing the rocks, evergreens, and mosses a season to shine along with the meandering streams, waterfalls, and the Little River.

I took a walk this winter on the DeSoto Scout Trail (DST) leading toward Moon Rock to admire the scenery and see what I might discover. On the journey, I was delighted to see red berries still waiting to be plucked from the evergreen vine commonly known as squaw vine or partridge berry.

Birds are big fans of the berry. It is said the name “partridge berry” was given to the vine as a result of the partridge bird being especially fond of the fruit. I am also a fan of plucking the berries here and there as I walk through the woods. The berries often are flavorless, though every now and then I get one that is a little less mealy than the rest and has just a hint of sweetness.

So why would I eat a berry without much flavor? One reason I eat them is because of the novelty that I know I can. It still makes me feel like a child like when I forage food and medicine. The other reason I eat them is because I am ingesting a very clean fresh food that has some nutrient content and is also medicinal. If I really want to get the full medicinal benefits I also harvest the vine and leaves in order to make tea or an extract.

Squaw vine is the other common name for partridge berry. Some Native American languages used the word squaw—or sqa—to mean woman or wife. Hence the name squaw vine because the vine, leaf and berries are known to have many beneficial uses for women, particularly during the years of menstruation. The plant is known to be helpful when used in combination with red raspberry leaf during the last 4–8 weeks of pregnancy. It has been used as a feminine tonic and for many female health issues including heavy, irregular menses and infertility. Women who have also reported some relief from hot flashes by drinking the tea and/or using the extract.

I refer to the plant as squaw vine one minute and partridge berry the next, often depending on whether I am referring to it as food or tonic/medicine. I used it as a tonic during the end of my pregnancy, though I never tried it on a regular basis depending on any other female complaints. Historically, the vine, leaves and berries have also been used for purposes such as rheumatic pain, dysentery, diarrhea and as a diuretic. There are other natural remedies more effective for these conditions, so it is rarely used for these presently.

My inspiration to study native botanicals has come from a great respect for the miraculousness of our relationship to nature and how it can help heal humanity’s mind, body, and soul. Venturing through the forest with openness and curiosity is invigorating and peaceful for me. Whether I am walking man-made trails, deer trails, or off the beaten path, there are always new things to learn and discover when I quiet my mind and slow down my pace. I hope you find many moments to have nature soothe you with its peace or teach you in its own subtle way.

The American Legion is the nation’s largest wartime veteran’s service organization. Mentone Post #215 was founded by returning local World War II veterans. It was chartered in 1946. The Post advocates patriotism and honor, sponsors programs for the youth, promotes national security, and supports fellow service members and veterans. You probably see the American flags they place in local cemeteries on Decoration Days to honor deceased veterans. The Post also hosts a Veteran’s Day dinner to celebrate our neighbors who have proudly defended our country.

Commander John O’Rear and Adjutant Hobson Kirby recently shared some of the history of the Mentone Post membership and building located at 195 Cove Road. They noted that the Post has lost several members over the past few years and they need new members. Anyone who served active duty in the US Armed Forces and is honorably discharged or still serving is eligible for membership. The Mentone area has many veterans of more recent conflicts and the community Post needs their support. The monthly meetings are the third Tuesday at 6:30 pm. The next meeting is February 16. If you have questions, please call Hobson Kirby at 256-634-4446.

Food for Frontline Families

Over the past year, hospital workers across the world have risked their personal safety to tend to COVID-19 patients, often communicating with patients’ families who cannot be with their loved ones, and sometimes having to say goodbye to the patients they could not save. Even though they’re on the “frontline” of the crisis, they are often in the background of the public’s minds. In January, a call was put out in the “Mentone Neighbor to Neighbor” Facebook group inviting folks to make casserole which could be delivered to workers at DeKalb Regional Medical Center. Nurse Angela Hadley of Mentone arranged times to pick up individual casseroles and then delivered them to the hospital.

“They were received with great appreciation,” said Angela. “It means the world to them to know that after a long and stressful shift, they have a meal to simply put in the oven when they get home. Many have families with small children, so this really makes a difference in their lives.” Thanks to everyone who has contributed. Following are some of the recipes that were used.

Sausage, Pepper & Rice Skillet
submitted by Megan Halderman (slightly adapted from Life Made Simple)
1-1/4 cup white rice, uncooked
2 tsp olive oil
12 oz package smoked sausage
1 red bell pepper, sliced
1 yellow bell pepper, sliced
1 small white onion, quartered and sliced
4 cloves garlic, minced

1 tsp paprika
1-1/2 Tbsp parsley, served immediately.

In a small saucepan, cook rice according to the package’s directions. Place a large skillet over medium-high heat. Once the skillet is hot, add the oil. After the oil shimmers, add the sausage and cook until browned on both sides, about 5 minutes. Remove from the pan and set aside. Add the peppers and onion to the skillet. Saute until the vegetables have softened, about 5-10 minutes. Add the garlic, salt, and pepper, cook until fragrant, about 1 minute. Remove from the pan and set aside with the sausage. Add the tomato paste, chicken broth and paprika to the skillet, whisk to combine. Allow the mixture to simmer for 1 minute. Stir in the cooked rice, sausage, pepper and onions until combined. Garnish with chopped parsley, serve immediately.
Help Fight Medicare Fraud
by Lynn Hixon

Medicare covers the COVID-19 vaccine at no cost to you, so if anyone asks you to share your Medicare Number or pay for access to the vaccine, you can bet it’s a scam.

Here is what you need to know:
- You can’t pay to put your name on a list to get the vaccine.
- You can’t pay to get early access to a vaccine.
- Don’t share your personal or financial info if someone calls, texts, or emails you promising access to the vaccine for a fee.
- Con artists may try to get your Medicare Number or personal information so they can steal your identity and commit Medicare fraud. Medicare fraud results in higher health care costs and taxes for everyone. Guard your Medicare card like it’s a credit card. Remember, Medicare will never contact you for your Medicare Number or other personal information unless you’ve given them permission in advance.
- Medicare will never call you to sell you anything. You may get calls from people promising you things if you give them a Medicare Number.
- Don’t do it. Medicare will never visit you at home and they can’t enroll you over the phone unless you called first. Review your Medicare claims and Medicare Summary Notices for any services billed to your Medicare Number you don’t recognize.
- If you have any questions or concerns please call the DeKalb County Council on Aging at 256-845-8590 and ask to speak to Lynn Hixon.

What would our community do without our library? It would certainly be different! For more than 20 years, the library has offered much richness to our lives, through the book collection, workshops and classes, book clubs, author talks, social gatherings, and a variety of other events.

The treasurer’s annual report for 2020 reflects how much the library has been impacted by the pandemic. With the loss of MAPA’s two festivals last year, we were unable to hold the book sales which ordinarily generate a substantial portion of our income. This resulted in a loss of $1,800 from the previous year’s sales. Our annual budget was reduced overall by over $3,000.

We humbly ask those in our community who can afford to do so, to donate $20. If enough people respond, this would really make a difference!

The library continues to offer curbside service with the ability to privately browse the shelves. Please visit moonlakelibrary.org to make your appointment or to browse our virtual book sale. Happy reading!

Moon Lake Book Club: Murder at the Library of Congress by Margaret Truman

In the depths of the U.S. Library of Congress toil thousands of researchers, chasing down obsessions, breakthroughs, and new contributions to human wisdom. But when amateur D.C. sleuth Annabel Reed-Smith enters this stately American institution, she discovers a hornet’s nest of intrigue and murder.

After a renowned scholar is bludgeoned to death among the scholarly stacks, an ambitious TV reporter links the case to the heist of a Spanish painting from a Miami museum and a killing in Mexico City. Annabel suspects that buried in the Library are secrets some people will do anything to keep silent—the secret of a rich man’s ambition, a researcher’s disappearance, and a mysterious diary of Christopher Columbus’s journey written 500 years ago.

Margaret Truman (1924–2008) was an American author, classical soprano, actress, journalist, radio and television personality, writer, and New York socialite. She was the only child of President Harry S. Truman and First Lady Bess Truman.

The community of Cloudland would like to thank and recognize several of our citizens for their care and effort in keeping our community clean and attractive.

John and Jan Low regularly travel up and down County Road 103, Cloudland Drive, and Gadsden Avenue in their green UTV picking up trash. This is why these roads stay so clean. They also organize LauraWood residents to decorate their signs at Christmas!

Rick and Jennifer Linn saw John and Jan picking up trash on the roadside and were inspired by them. So they decided to take on keeping our Cloudland sign at the blinking light looking neat and nice. They have consistently mowed and weeded around the sign and also decorated with pumpkins in the fall and a wreath at Christmas. Elizabeth and Marty Destafney have now planted some flowers in the two stone columns. We need to thank them all for making our welcome sign look so good.

Addiline and Earl Drennen decided they were tired of seeing a large pile of trash on the side of Brow Drive, so they got their pickup truck and started filling it up. Burmah Green and Tiffany Agee were walking by and stopped to help. They completely filled the pickup with the trash! Thanks from everyone who lives on Brow Drive.

A big thank you to Clay Birchfield who replaced the tennis nets at the tennis courts! He saw they needed replacing and he took it on himself to do it! Thank you!

I feel sure there are others in our community who help keep Cloudland neat and tidy. Thanks to everyone, and keep up the good work. You are truly appreciated.
Every Picket Tells a Story!

by Jay Robbins

Drivers who are traveling into or out of Mentone on Highway 117 via the east end of town almost certainly notice the multicolored, brightly painted fence that separates the highway from the MERF walking track. What’s not obvious to drivers, though, is that on the other side of the pickets are pictures painted by members of our community.

The MERF (Mentone Educational Resources Foundation) walking track is officially called the Pathway to Community. Regular readers of this newspaper know how it came to be, but here’s a quick recap. The ¼-mile walking track has been there since 1997 (designed by youngster Jake Pinholster for his Eagle Scout project). Hoping to make it more of a community centerpiece, some local leading lights, on behalf of MERF, put together a five-minute video presentation of their vision for the track, applied for a $20,000 competitive grant from the Community Foundation of Northeast Alabama, and won.

That was a little more than a year ago. Since then, benches and chairs have been added along the path, as well as a variety of outdoor musical instruments. The once-unsightly concrete block building that sits behind the MERF House has been painted on all four sides with murals depicting native flowers. There is a large abacus that helps you keep track of how many laps you complete. And, of course, there is the fence.

My wife and I find ourselves at the Pathway to Community from time to time in order to stroll, walk our dog Akta, or to show the fence to visitors. There are 420 pickets in total, each of them decorated in some manner by people in our community. (Some people did more than one.) They depict all manner of things—people, animals (lots of animals), scenes from nature, and more. Some have words, some don’t. Some make sense, some don’t. Some are spiritual. Some look like they were done by artists who know their way around a drawing pencil and paintbrush and can stay within the lines. Others look like they were painted by adults (like me) who haven’t drawn anything since high school, or by children. (It can be hard to tell the difference.) And, of course, there are lots and lots of colors.

It occurred to me recently that each one of the images on those panels was painted by someone for a reason. If every picture tells a story, and if there are hundreds of painted pickets, there must be hundreds of stories. So I selected some of the pickets (some at random, some because they caught my eye for one reason or another), tracked down who painted them, and asked if they would mind sharing their thoughts. They were all kind enough to do so.

It should be noted that when you look at the fence, you are looking at the culmination of a lot of time and labor, most of it voluntary. Each of those hundreds of pickets had to be primed, and then painted on both sides. Painting sessions had to be organized so community members could paint their pictures. (Jan Wilkinson graciously hung around much of the time and drew sketches on pickets for those who felt more confident having a design to work with.) A lot of nailing, digging, lifting, and leveling had to be done to get the fence up. And all this during the year of COVID-19! MERF Executive Director Sarah Wilcox says, “Loved family and friends came together to create. I am glad so many stepped out of their comfort zones. Covid gave us a gift to have a purpose that created a happy and inviting local space that we all have ownership of now.”

Here are the stories of some of the pickets.

What’s your picket’s story?!

If you painted a picket for the Pathway to Community and would like to share your story in a future issue of The Groundhog, contact Jay Robbins at jrobbins727@gmail.com.

When we, the girls at Camp Skyline, heard about the opportunity to paint fence pickets for the MERF track we were immediately excited! We couldn’t wait for the chance to not only get out of the office during Covid, but also to participate in a unique project for the community! It was a great way to see the community come together in a time when we were mostly apart and produce something so filled with life. I am not the most gifted painter, so I drew Charlie Brown characters for others to paint because who doesn’t love Charlie Brown? Now every time I go to the MERF House or drive by, it brings a smile to my face to see all of those colorful pickets. And I’m reminded of just how grateful I am to be part of the Mentone community and, also, of my gratefulness for the community members, specifically Sarah Wilcox, who orchestrated this project and did an incredible job.

2 Kerry Breithaupt

Most locals know I’m a licensed massage therapist of approximately 23 years. Hence the hands-on experience. The pup is Angel, my rescue—or perhaps it’s the other way around? She rescued me and is my comfort gift!

3 Linda Espy

I love koi and the peace and beauty they bring to a setting. There has been a koi pond in my backyard for 30 years, and I enjoy having friends join me in the swing to feed and watch them. They are almost like pets. Painting koi was my way to add some of nature’s beauty to the fence.

4 Anne McLeod and Don Highfield

As the picket project was winding down, Kelly Leavitt, the Moon Lake Community Librarian, mentioned to me that there were not as yet any pickets featuring books or reading. So Don and I took that on as a challenge and an opportunity to make some book recommendations through a collaborative art project. Don sketched out the design, I came up with most of the titles, and we both worked on the painting.

At the bottom of the stack is the childhood classic, The Secret Garden, by Francis Hodgson Burnett. There are two graphic novels, a literary form popular with young readers: El Deafo by Cece Bell and March by Congressman John Lewis, who was originally from Alabama and who died in July. There wasn’t enough space for the full title The Story of My Life: Helen Keller, but we wanted to acknowledge another inspiring Alabamian who led an extraordinary life. There wasn’t room either for Roald Dahl’s our favorite Charlie and the Chocolate Factory, so we used his Matilda instead. Don had read Dahl’s autobiography, Boy, and he added that—not a children’s title by any means! Big Magic: Creative Living Beyond Fear by Elizabeth Gilbert tops the stack, a how-to manual about unlocking your creative spirit, something many of us have had to do to make it through 2020. This and most of the other titles in the stack are available for check out at the Moon Lake Community Library.

5 Joan Byrum

I’ve painted on a lot of objects in my life but never a fence picket. Even loving the idea of being a part of such a beautiful project as this community-created fence, I was still concerned about how to paint a subject on such a long narrow surface. I wanted something that children would instantly recognize, something that would tell them a story without words. A cat and mouse in some sort of interaction came to mind. So my picket depicts an elongated cat stretched as far as possible struggling to regain control of his favorite toy from a smart little mouse. The toy, a ball of yarn, is being pulled quickly away by a little grey mouse who is looking over his shoulder with a taunting grin on his face. Poor Kitty…outrun by a tiny mouse.

6 Liza Thornell

I had so much fun getting to paint my picket. I picked the farmer picket (it was already sketched in) because I just thought he was so cute and had a story to tell.

A few things about me: I am a senior at Samford University in Birmingham and I grew up in Tuscaloosa. I started going to Camp Skyline when I was 10 and my parents purchased a weekend home in Mentone my senior year of high school. We have always loved the area and spend a lot of time there. This summer my mom called me and told me she had a surprise and that I had to come to Mentone and wear messy clothes. That weekend, I brought my boyfriend, Jackson, with me (it was his first time meeting my parents) and she got us in the car and wouldn’t tell us where we were going. We guessed the whole way there that we were going horseback riding, so when we pulled up to paint pickets, I started dying laughing. We had so much fun and it is such a sweet, fun memory!

7 Rand Hall

I had a definite intention when I painted my picket. My precious sister, Diana, died December 22, 2019. She was of Cherokee descent and we walked the Red Road together, which means following a Native American/Lakota spiritual path. My sister was always my guide and guidance. By example, she showed me how to walk “in a good way.” The stripes on the bottom, at the base of the picket are the four colors representing the four directions (the cycle of life). The eagle in the sky is to carry her spirit to the other side, to the spirit world. And in between, the feather floating in the sky represents Diana’s life. At the very bottom is the turtle, representing Turtle Island, what we call this continent that supports us. The turtle, the colors of the four directions, the eagle, and the feather are all symbols of things we hold sacred. Mitakwe oyasin (We are all one).

8 Jan Wilkinson

This is Sarah Wilcox and her dog, George, in front of the MERF House. The crowd of people at the bottom releasing balloons are community members thanking Sarah for her never-ending work to enhance life in the Mentone community. She represents MERF and her personal love for Mentone.

9 Lucy Massey

I painted a few different pickets but my favorite was the one I did that was supposed to be me! I have on a Camp Skyline shirt with a pink skirt and I have red hair. I’m not artistic in the slightest but I loved painting this one because it’s the red hair with the Skyline shirt so that describes me pretty well. I’ve been attending or working at Camp Skyline since 2004 and love it more than anything and I have loved living in Mentone year round!

Well, I am not an artist (at all!) and can’t paint a real picture, and I wanted to do something that was dissimilar to the ones already done. I think it is important for people to take a look at symbols outside of their normal viewpoint. The “Chinese” characters and yin-yang symbol exemplify a way of looking at the world, and oneself, in a non-western cultural way.

11 Alyce Kenney

Painting my slat made me feel like a kid again! My picket is based on a comic strip character named Alice Otterloop. She is a pre-school ragamuffin type girl who says what she thinks. She is my personal hero because she lives life to the fullest! My picket shows her looking and reaching upwards towards the magical wonders of the universe. I love Alice so much I have t-shirts, coffee mugs, stationery, and other items with her image on them. The comic strip was called “Cul-de-sac” and Richard Thompson drew it. Sadly, he died from complications of Parkinson’s disease and the comic strip lives no more. BUT Alice lives on in my heart every day. I try to imagine what she would do or say in daily experiences. At times like these, I think we all could use a little Alice Otterloop in our lives to get us through the tough times. We all were children fearless, with rich imaginations and endless possibilities once, we should try to capture some of that spirit again.

12 Lisa Crow

I was so tickled to make space to paint a picket for our lovely walking trail at the MERF House. The Mentone community came together and truly did a fantastic job creating a fence worthy of walking by daily. I chose to paint a bit of the starry night (my impression, of course) with a chakra color chain on mine because I pray so much lately for calmness and peacefulness in the midst of all that is happening in our universe. I find peace under the stars. We do have the best skies to gaze upon them. Don’t you think? Honored to be a part of this. Truly.

13 Bill Berry

My initial plan was to simply paint the word JOY on my picket, using colorful lettering to express my love of that word and its meaning. But Jan Wilkinson came to my rescue (as she did for so many other picket-painters) and sketched the final product that is now on display. She selected several things that are important in my life ... BERRY PATCH, which is the family compound where I grew up and where I still live ... MOON LAKE ELEMENTARY SCHOOL, where I worked as teacher for 13 years and principal for 13 years in what I consider my life’s mission ... CAMP DeSOTO, where I have worked as office manager for the 14 years since my retirement from Moon Lake ... and HARD ROCK CAFE SHANGHAI, in tribute to my lifelong passion for foreign travel (I have so far visited 123 countries). I’m grateful to Jan for providing me such a unique sketch, especially since those items she included collectively portray the JOY that I have experienced in my life and work.
December brought a little fun and joy to the MERF house to end 2020 with a boost. Pat Peterson and Paula Easter helped me pack goodie bags with festive masks and candy for the Moon Lake students, the MERF moms group, and the senior lunch bunch crew. On Wednesday, December 16, kitchen elves Susan Noel, Carolyn Nail, Vicky Patrick, Hazel Bickerstaff, Kathy McMunn, Paula Easter, and Dee Dee Dunkerley helped prepare, deliver, and pass out a wonderful meal of chicken and dressing, green beans, creamed corn, and mashed potatoes purchased from Tiger’s Inn. Judy Johnson and her crew know how to make our tummies happy! It was so great to see many of the lunch bunch crew, even if it was from a distance! Everyone can’t wait to be back in the MERF house for fellowship and food!

Carolyn Nail, Vicky Patrick, Paula Easter, and Susan Noel working hard and safely in the MERF kitchen getting lunches ready to deliver to the senior lunch bunch crew.

December also meant that it was time to review the hard work of local students. Congratulations to the four Sue McLaurin Henry Memorial Scholarship recipients. The scholarship committee awarded Saddler Emory (University of North Alabama), Avion Gelfenstein (Northeast AL Community College), Julie Smith (Northeast AL Community College), and August Shanklin (Jacksonville State University) with a check to help offset school expenses for the spring 2021 semester. MERF looks forward to seeing these future college graduates making a difference in our community. The committee was especially proud that they kept up with their studies well during a difficult season, with the pandemic moving most of their classes online. In person learning is much more appreciated and preferred now. Unless specified for other means, memorial checks sent to MERF are deposited in the scholarship fund.

Have you seen the teepee going up at the MERF house? Just kidding, but the new cover for the ramp did look like a future teepee as the posts were being set. So now, when it’s raining or snowing, passengers can be dropped off at the bottom of the ramp and stay dry coming into the MERF house for senior lunch or a meeting! Also, the MERF house soon will have a new coat of paint and be all bright and shiny for a hopeful community celebration in the spring. Fred Smith, the grant manager for the Community Foundation of Northeast Alabama, came by one snowy day in December to see the Pathway to Community work. He was so impressed with all the transformation that you all made happen, especially the fence and the instruments. We will have a celebration with the Foundation as soon as it is safe to do so. For now, just keep enjoying the fun and creative atmosphere of the walking path, the instruments, and the happy fence. Thanks to Jay Robbins, we will have a chance to get to know our neighbors better as he has initiated a great idea of gathering the stories of the fence pickers. He will interview the creators and then put their stories in The Groundhog in coming months. How wonderful will that be?! You can read this month’s picket stories on page 12.

River Voice by Angie Shugart

“The river called. The call is the thundering rumble of distant rapids, the intimate roar of white water.” —John Craighead

Whitewater on Little River is a seasonal phenomenon that attracts professional kayakers from all over the world. When most of us are dreaming of Little River on a hot, summer day; winter is the perfect time for adventure seekers to don their drysuits, strap down their kayaks and head to the nearest put-in. Today’s technology provides an “app” to alert eager boaters when the flow is at a safe level after a heavy rain event. It is not long before Little River Canyon is dotted with bright colored kayaks against a green and gray landscape. To watch kayakers fearlessly ascend the 30-foot waterfall at the beginning of Little River Canyon is not for the faint of heart. Be assured, these guys and gals are trained in whitewater safety and know how to “read” the river, and scout out and understand the dangers. Having experienced kayaking skills makes the Canyon no less dangerous. In fact, it’s quite the opposite. Little River literally gets wild along the East Fork, within the Little River Wildlife Management Area and of course Little River Canyon and its major creeks, making it famous for the sport. Kayakers named sections of the river “Pinball” and “Suicide” for a reason. They take on these challenges all the way to where the mouth of Little River flows into Lake Weiss.

So what makes Little River roar? People ask me, “Where is the dam release?” Although there are dams on Little River, none of them generate electricity or release water in order to maintain a certain level of flow. We see other waterways, such as the Ocoee and Nantahala rivers, that are dam-controlled and popular for whitewater rafting and kayaking.

The reason for the seasonal rise in cubic feet of water on Little River is unlike anywhere else in the world. There is a thin layer of shale that perches on top of Lookout Mountain, making the river completely dependent on rainwater to keep it flowing. During heavy rains the headwaters of Little River fill up ephemeral (wet weather) streams and tributaries that lead to Little River, washing away anything in its path. Items that are not secure along the river, such as furniture, boats, floats, and even docks, get swept away and are not only a loss for homeowners but a danger for boaters downstream.

A flooded Little River is a sight to behold for a short while, giving whitewater paddlers a slice of heaven during the most dreary days of winter. River flow across the nation is measured with gauges in real time by the United States Geological Survey (USGS). The data collected on a national level is used for the creation of river management plans, to forecast flooding, and to manage reservoirs, the maps can be read by anyone who is interested in water levels and streamflow. At any given time, you can visit usgs.gov to look up real time data on Little River. This is how boaters know when the river is ready to run. The USGS gauge on Little River is located above the Highway 35 bridge at Blue Hole. If Little River is flowing over 1,000 cubic feet per second (cfs), make sure to secure your items that are close to the water. This river can get up above 10,000 cfs during any given rain event. To give you another perspective of how big Little River can get, during the Easter flood of 2020, the Blue Hole gauge read close to 40,000 cfs. Now that is some BIG WATER!

ISABELLE BRADLEY MOODY
November 7, 1921 - December 20, 2020

Isabelle B. Moody, 99, passed away peacefully at her Cloundland, GA, home on December 20, 2020. Mrs. Moody was born and raised in New York City before moving to Miami, Florida in the 1940s, where she met and married her first husband, Ernest J. Smith in 1949. Both of their daughters attended Valley View Ranch Equestrian Camp for girls, which is when the family was introduced to Lookout Mountain and the Cloudland area. After her husband’s death in 1968, Mrs. Moody purchased 6 acres on the East Brow in Cloundland from Mr. Jack Jones and built her first home there, a vacation cabin. She returned to work as a medical office administrator for a family physician, and later went on to found her own business as a corporate consultant.

When she remarried in 1991, Mrs. Moody and her second husband, C. Osment (Oz) Moody, began spending half of each year at his home in Key Largo, FL, and the other half in Cloudland. In 1993, the couple decided to make Cloudland their permanent residence, and purchased a new home, also on the East Brow, where Mrs. Moody continued to live after her husband passed away in 2013. She was joined on the mountain by her younger daughter, who oversaw her care and enabled her to remain in the home and community she loved so much until her death.

How does a Manhattan debutante end up in the quiet country life of Lookout Mountain? Isabelle Moody lived a remarkable life, filled with travel and many adventures. She loved the ocean and was an avid swimmer, boater and deep sea fisher. Music was a major part of her life, and she was an accomplished pianist, still playing the piano her grandparents gave her when she was 9 years old, well into her 90s. A lover of the English language, she insisted upon proper grammar and punctuation and was named “Grammar Queen” by her children. Isabelle enjoyed reading and working daily crossword puzzles in ink. She embraced technology and was the first in her family to own a

Free Courses Available Online
by Anne McLeod

Looking for an activity to get you through the final weeks of our pandemic winter? Consider a MOOC, a Massive Open Online Course. There you can pursue job skills or do a deep dive into personal interests with courses like “Web Design for Everybody,” “Digital Marketing,” “The Age of Cathedrals,” “Basic Spanish Vocabulary,” “How to Play Guitar,” and thousands of other choices on a wide range of topics. The best part is that the courses are free unless you pursue a degree or certification.

Coursera.org and edX.org are the top two websites that host MOOCs from various institutions around the world. Many are Ivy League schools and highly regarded research universities, such as Harvard, Yale, UC Berkeley, Columbia, and Stanford. Companies like Google and IBM offer courses as well for those hoping to obtain certifications in technology-related fields. Johns Hopkins University has an in-depth training for anyone interested in becoming a contact tracer during the pandemic or who would just like to find out the latest information on the coronavirus. The Museum of Modern Art’s Modern and Contemporary Art and Design specialization through Coursera consists of four courses: “Modern Art and Ideas,” “Seeing through Photographs,” “What Is Contemporary Art?” and “Fashion as Design.”

Browse the courses on the Coursera and edX websites. If you choose to sign up for one, create an account, and your course information will appear.

My personal experience with free online courses has been similar to most people in that initially I signed up for a couple of courses I didn’t complete in the allotted time. Although I enjoyed them, life got in the way and I let them go. There’s no penalty if you don’t complete a course. It just disappears from your account.

Then the weather turned cold, and I wanted a new activity to enjoy from the comfort of a warm house, so I signed up for “The Science of Well Being” taught by Dr. Laurie Santos from Yale University’s psychology department. The course, which is mostly video-based, began with some online assessments to gauge my current happiness levels and personal areas of strength. Since then, I’ve watched the videos of lectures and interviews with other researchers a couple of afternoons a week and completed the weekly quizzes. Since I’m auditing the course and not paying fees, the assignments are minimal. Each week there are what Santos calls “Rewirements,” habits to develop such as identifying daily what you’re grateful for or taking a few minutes for meditation. There are discussion boards where you can discuss the course week by week with other students who are enrolled through Coursera.

Six weeks into “The Science of Well Being,” I feel sure I’ll complete the course. It’s been affirming to learn that research shows that the habits I’ve focused on over the last year, exercise and meditation, were good choices for maintaining mental health, particularly important during the challenges of 2020. Social connections, acts of kindness, and a focus on gratitude are also important, and the course served as a reminder to be more intentional about these actions and attitudes.

Lifelong learning is one of the healthiest habits of mind a person can develop, and with the technology available to us, there’s no reason not to check out some of the offerings online. The sites and course information are easy to navigate on a laptop or tablet. You might even find a friend with similar interests and take a course at the same time, so that the two of you have the fun of discussing the readings and lectures together. I know I’ll be back to browsing the listings, even after the weather warms up again.
