"Old Yeller" Continues to Serve

Local artist Lydia Adele Randolph wanted to help the North Lookout Mountain Fire Protection District (NLMFPD) in some way and decided the best way was to do what comes naturally to her — paint. So she pulled out her brushes and paints and soon the colors began to explode all over her canvas. The end result was an amazing painting of the NLMFPD’s old yellow firetruck, with the former site of the Mentone Springs Hotel as the backdrop.

Ms. Randolph donated her original painting to the NLMFPD and suggested that we sell prints of it to help raise money for our ongoing fundraising efforts. She hinted that if this idea were well received, she might even paint another scene or two for the fire department.

On June 1, the NLMFPD will begin taking online orders for art prints of Ms. Randolph’s painting, aptly named “Old Yeller”. The art prints are a perfect size for framing at 11”x17” and each print will be individually signed by the artist. The cost is $44, which includes a small fee of $4 for shipping and handling. All proceeds from the sale of these art prints will be used to purchase much-needed equipment for the firefighters. These prints will be sold for a limited time only — from June 1 through June 15. All orders will be processed and shipped via regular mail the week of June 17. If you are interested in purchasing an art print, don’t delay. Please go to NorthLookoutMountainFPD.com and look for the Fundraising tab.

As always, the NLMFPD greatly appreciates your support.

Music is in the air this summer, thanks to a grant received by Little River Arts Council (LRAC) from the Alabama State Council on the Arts and the National Endowment for the Arts. Our fifth annual Summer Music Series begins on Saturday, June 23, with a performance by Lost in Tyme, a 6-person bluegrass band from Middle Tennessee. They’ve performed for us before, and we’ve invited them to Mentone once again, simply because we enjoy them that much. Mark your calendar and invite your friends for a musical evening at the Mentone Inn Pavilion. The concert begins at 7 and is free to all.

On July 7, Jerry and Pixie Bloom will perform at the historic CCC Pavilion at DeSoto State Park. Our partnership with the Park allows us to share our local talent with visitors who are staying at the park for the holiday weekend. On August 4, during the World’s Longest Yard Sale, Lumbar Five will perform for our local population and visitors alike. This Chattanooga band is a group of five chiropractors who simply enjoy playing music together. They’ve got a great sound and we know they’ll be a lot of fun.

Since the Arts Council believes everyone is an artist, we will have art activities at each of our summer concerts for everyone attending. Last year, we offered art for children at one of the concerts, and realized it wasn’t just the children who enjoyed making art during the concert — folks of all ages enjoyed it. So, everyone will be able to make art during each of our concerts this summer. If you are an artist who would like to help out, please let us know. We also invite artists to contact us if you would like to display and sell your work during the concert. Email info@littleriverarts council.org for details.

We are continuing to build an artist registry that will serve both artists and art lovers alike. Sometimes we receive inquiries from people wanting a certain kind of artwork, so by building this registry, we’ll be best able to connect those people with artists. Also, the Arts Council has several public art projects in mind, and the registry will help us identify artists who might be interested in participating. Artists don’t need to be members of the Arts Council to join the registry. Visit littleriverarts council.org for details.

In May, we hosted two discussion sessions which focused on creative placemaking. Thanks to all who have attended. Your ideas, vision, and contributions are important. Our next meeting is Saturday, June 2, at 9:30 a.m. at Moon Lake Library. Visit our web site for future dates as we schedule them. In addition to learning more about the concept behind creative placemaking, several projects are being researched and discussed by participants. An important characteristic of placemaking is the total involvement of community, both in the implementation and the perpetual enjoyment of the project. This is an exciting experiment for our town, and its value will be best marked by the involvement of many, so please join us for future meetings to learn more or to become involved.

Mentone Matters • by Mayor Rob Hammond

Summer is here. Mentone is about to experience its seasonal population explosion. With the camps opening and summer folks coming, we see an increase in people cycling, jogging, and walking. Please keep an extra careful eye out when you are driving.

Last week, I had a visit from ALDOT Maintenance Superintendent Doug Hicks. He is responsible for maintaining the right of way on AL 117. There is encroachment from trees and bushes on the right-of-way, making it difficult to see coming out of some of the side streets — particularly Dempsey and Dogwood. When ALDOT clears the right-of-way, they use a bush hog turned vertically. For a while after this is completed, the trees look a little ragged. Mr. Hicks pointed out that if property owners along 117 want to avoid this, they should take steps to clear the ROW in front of their property. Mr. Hicks is aware Mentone is a tourist destination and the natural beauty is important. He would like to give property owners an opportunity to do this before ALDOT has to do it.

Presently within the community development district in Mentone, it is legal to sell alcohol for on-premise consumption. Recent legislation will allow a yes or no vote on whether alcohol can be sold within the community development district for off-premise use. It was stipulated in the legislation that this vote had to take place at the next primary or general election, no less than 82 days after the bill was signed into law. The June 5 primary comes too soon. However, if there is a run-off in the primary, there is a possibility the vote could be held then, rather than wait until the general election held in November. Only voters who live in the town limits of Mentone will vote yes or no. There will be separate poll workers and there will be provisions for absentee ballots, just as in any municipal election.

Letter from the Editor

We’re in the last days of growing light. Soon, the days will begin to become shorter. Hard to believe, isn’t it? We aren’t yet into the deep heat of summer, but it’s coming. These are days to enjoy, as much and as often as possible. Enjoy those first tomatoes. Enjoy lying in a hammock with a compelling book. Enjoy a swim in the river — or a boat ride, if possible. Canoeing is an incredibly relaxing way to spend a few hours.

One of my favorite ways to spend summer evenings is to meet my friends at Brow Park to enjoy watching the sunset together. Summer’s sunset is late enough that I can do all that my day requires of me, eat a light dinner, and be at the brown in time to watch the sun’s westward dip. That’s often when the real beauty begins. And that’s often when most people leave. But…if you wait five or perhaps ten minutes, sometimes the sky will absolutely light up in ways not even conceived of.

This leads me to a warm welcome to the campers and their families who are spending time in Mentone this summer. Please be patient with us slower drivers. We’ll be patient with you, too. If someone waves at you driving by, don’t be shy — wave back. It’s a friendly thing. Leave the city in the city, and enjoy everything this mountain has to give to us.

This is a life analogy for me. Leo Tolstoy said, “The two most powerful warriors are patience and time.” I have found this to be true. They each always pay off.

This leads me to a warm welcome to the campers and their families who are spending time in Mentone this summer. Please be patient with us slower drivers. We’ll be patient with you, too. If someone waves at you driving by, don’t be shy — wave back. It’s a friendly thing. Leave the city in the city, and enjoy everything this mountain has to give to us.

Did you know it’s often a good thing to be bored? This time can beckon to our imagination, and allow it space to fill our minds with real possibilities, to identify answers to problems, and to excite ourselves with future dreams and plans. My hope is that Mentone gives us all, locals and visitors alike, the peaceful relaxation that only summertime can bring. Happy summer! — Kelly Leavitt

The Rhododendron Garden Club met on May 8 for our annual MERF House yard clean up. A not-so-brief meeting was held before members donned gloves and did their magic. Honey Ennis provided a Nutty Butter banana pudding for the energy necessary to pull weeds, rake the hemlock needles, trim bushes and haul debris to the burn pile. The group moved to the Mentone Post Office for a re-do of its front bed. A grouping of evergreens purchased from the Master Gardener Plant Sale was planted, giving the bed year-round color and interest. Hosta provided by the Postmistress added texture and the next addition will be blooming annuals for color. Time and flagging energy prevented attention to the back bed but members will re-group to plant another day.

Conservation Chair Marsha Merrell discussed “How to Get Your Backyard Certified as a Wildlife Refuge.” Requirements include: provision for food and water, cover and places to raise young and employ sustainable gardening practices. Visit the National Wildlife Federation website for tips, projects and how to certify.

Madelon David shared a printout from Auburn University that the school was named the first Bee Campus USA in Alabama. “The university joins a group of 39 campuses nationwide, aiming to raise awareness of pollinators, food production, native plant species and integrated pest management, all while stimulating the nation’s economy through services that those efforts support.” If the pollinators are not protected, 90% of the world’s wild plant and tree species could be endangered as well. Students also visit local elementary schools with Beeeducation, so hopefully a new generation will be better caretakers of the earth’s pollinators. “Unless someone like you cares a whole awful lot, nothing is going to get better. It’s not.” – from The Lorax

The joint (Moon Lake students and teachers, Master Gardeners, and RGC) after-school gardening program is coming to a close for this school year. Students planted nasturtiums, coneflowers, and phlox in two of the raised beds to provide nectar and larval food for pollinators. For Earth Day and with the help of Rhea Pitch, Dee Kelley, and Master Gardeners Lynn Evans and Brandy Houston, the program “Save the Trees, Save the Earth” was presented. Facts were learned. Trees were drawn by tracing hands, filling in lines for bark and painting green leaves on. Cosmos seeds were taken home in origami envelopes. All materials were recycled in keeping with the Reduce, Reuse, Recycle theme of Earth Day. Moon Lake students are amazing learners and we’re excitedly planning for August. The greenhouse will be an added bonus and we are so fortunate to be able to share and learn as well!

St. Joseph’s on-the-Mountain Episcopal Church has dedicated an area to our beloved Shirley (and Oscar) Hussell. The RGC donated a Rhododendron (thanks to Misty Waters for the beautiful specimen) that was added to plantings from the Hussell yard. A bench, also from Shirley’s yard, completes the tranquil site, where folks can take a moment to just be.

This Old House: MERF Community House

My boards may be a little creaky and my paint a little flaky but I am full of life. I continue to open my doors to the young and the wise so my walls are full of joy, laughter and learning.

It’s a two scoop day at MERF! The Farley Moody Galbraith fund at the Community Foundation in Anniston choose Mentone Educational Resources Foundation (MERF) as a grant recipient this spring. MERF will receive half of the funds needed to take Moon Lake Elementary School’s older students to Atlanta’s Alliance Theater and Huntsville’s Symphony Orchestra in the 2018–2019 school year. These are two great field trips that the students have enjoyed tremendously. If you don’t know why it is a two scoop day, then ask Executive Director Sarah Wilcox about the story behind the phrase.

The month of May was filled with recognition and fun. On Tuesday, May 15, MERF’s tutors were recognized at Moon Lake Elementary School’s awards ceremony. Thanks to Carl Ferguson, Bill Rutledge, Vicky Patrick, Ken Trowbridge, Meg Richardson, Sadler Emory, Rebecca Henderson, and Kat Griffith for being faithful weekly tutors and subs this school year. Then, on Wednesday afternoon, MERF hosted another “Afternoon with the Artists”. Max Mitchell (potter), Chuck Peters (stained glass sculptor) and Eddie Price (cartoonist) graciously gave of their time and their passion to the Moon Lake students. See Ms. Paula’s article for more about this fun event.

The week ended with the revelation and receipt of the fabulous book, ABC and 123 Alabama is Home to Me, illustrated and written by all of the K–3rd grade students at Moon Lake, with great assistance from their teachers: Lea Long; Jennifer Gotham; Christa Sims; Kelbi Ballenger; and Paula Easter. Joy, excitement, and pride was beaming from the students as they received their collaborative creation with shouts of “I did that one!” and “Where is your picture?” Don’t you love all of their thumbprints creating the state of Alabama on the cover? Thanks to a matching grant from Alabama State Council on the Arts and the National Endowment of the Arts, MERF was able to work with Moon Lake students to produce this wonderful piece of art and literature. Congratulations on a job well done! Extra copies are available for purchase from Sarah.

Thanks to MAPA for hosting another wonderful Rhododendron Festival! We loved everyone who came by our booth to say hello and to purchase a “Leave Me in Mentone” item. Didn’t you love the new mug colors? Oh no, did you miss a chance to shop MERF items? Stop by the Country Store at DeSoto State Park, Little River Hardware or Magnolia Rose & Co. for great Father’s Day gifts or gifts for yourself. Thank you for supporting MERF and its programs by stopping by to say hello and/or making a purchase.

Although senior lunches take a summer break, be on the lookout for information about senior gatherings at local restaurants and summer socials. Make sure Sarah has your contact information if you are interested in joining us.

And another two scoop celebration is that we can meet at the MERF house again, thanks to Kevin Cash and crew, who fixed the foundation this spring. The MERF house is also available again for meeting use and family gatherings. But we are sad to have lost a senior lunch bunch friend, Betty Carmichael, this May. We have loved getting to know her and her husband, Jim, as they discovered the fun of senior lunches this past fall. Rest in peace sweet Betty, your sweet smile and spirit will be missed.

Thanks to Charlie Stone, from Blue Sky Photography, for capturing wonderful moments in pictures at MERF’s 6th annual Taste of the Mountain and Art Auction. See all of the pictures on MERF’s youtube that can be reached through our website merfhouse.org.

As you enjoy summer breezes on the mountain, please remember to support our local artists and our restaurants that support so many organizations in Mentone, such as MERF. A piece of artwork is a memorable wedding, graduation or Father’s Day gift. Time would be well spent having a wonderful meal at a local restaurant or cooking with fresh, locally grown vegetables and meat. Let’s support our artisans so they can keep creating.

Sarah Wilcox is the “voice” of the MERF House. Mentone Educational Resources Foundation (MERF) is a local non-profit with the mission, “To enrich the learning and living of the community by identifying needs and coordinating resources.” If you would like to support our programs, tax-deductible donations can be mailed to P.O. Box 107 Mentone, AL 35984 or contribute online at crowdrise.com/MERF. Contact us at merf.mentone@gmail.com or 256-634-4673.
Artists in the Classrooms • by Paula Easter

When I can’t believe that this school year is just days away from being over, but what an incredible year it has been in the Fine Arts classroom! I have to admit, as each month has rolled around I have continuously asked myself, “What will I write about this month?” Without a doubt, there always seem to be so many wonderful things to write about. This month is no exception.

MERF recently sponsored our third annual “Artists in the Classroom.” What an incredible group of artists our Moon Lake students had the opportunity to experience again this year!

An artist, designer, and craftsman throughout his life, Chuck Peters has been creating stained glass windows and sculptures since the early 1970s. Originally, his stained glass was a hobby but his ongoing passion for stained glass led him to offer his talents professionally. Unique in the world of stained glass, he has developed and built three-dimensional stained glass sculptures to include full-sized realistic eagles, standing eagles, and full-wing-span eagle sculptures. One amazing stained glass outdoor sculpture resides nearby in Lafayette, Georgia. Mr. Chuck Peters and his beautiful stained glass artwork brought out lots of “ohs and ah’s” from Moon Lake students. First grader Hallie Lee loved all the beautiful colors in the stained glass, and was amazed by how Mr. Peters made all of the glass pieces fit together to make a beautiful picture.

Another wonderful artist who shared her talents in clay with Moon Lake students was Ms. Max Mitchell. She talked about how she was always surrounded by art with the interest of her parents. At first, she loved painting with the use of lots of colors, but when she discovered clay she loved taking something, feeling it, and creating whatever she wanted to with it. Ms. Mitchell talked to the students about the early use of pottery as functional and how people had to figure out how to make something hold water. As the students worked with the clay, Ms. Mitchell explained how the ashes combine with clay to make the glaze but that the clay must be fired at a high heat to solidify it. Jacqueline Morgan said she loved getting her hands in the clay like Ms. Mitchell, and was very proud of her clay bowl. I would love to find boxes on my doorsteps filled with wonderful things Ms. Lucy had left for me.

The last artist that I want to talk about is different in a couple of ways. I have had the privilege of getting to know Chuck Peters and Max Mitchell during my years here at Moon Lake. This last artist I knew as a younger when I was working at Trion Elementary School, in Trion, Georgia. I didn’t know of his talent in art, just his wonderful musical ability (which I am glad to say that he still makes very good use of). A few years ago, I read a very interesting article about a young promising artist — and it was my former music student, Eddie Price! For several years now, I have been trying to get Eddie to take part in our “Artists in the Classroom.” Finally, this year, Eddie was able to spend the day with us here at Moon Lake. I have to admit I felt like a “proud mom” and was excited for him to share with our students. Eddie has quickly built a fan base with his unique 3D art, keeping the audience turning heads and becoming known as “that 3D guy.” He is also an international artist for Topps and Upper Deck, with various completed projects such as Marvel, The Walking Dead, Guardians of the Galaxy Vol. 2, Star Wars and more. Eddie taught proportions with all Moon Lake students and everyone left the art room with a version of Captain America.

I would like to say a great big “THANK YOU” to these three wonderful artists for sharing their incredible talents with my Moon Lake students.

Well folks, that wraps it up for this school year — and now on to the next! Happy Summer from the Fine Arts Classroom!
10 Things You Need to Know About Your New Medicare Card • by Lynn Hixon

Medicare began mailing new Medicare cards in April, 2018. Many people may have already received their new cards. Make sure your mailing address is up-to-date. If your address needs to be corrected, contact Social Security at ssa.gov/myaccount or 1-877-316-4418.

Here are ten (10) things you need to know about your new Medicare card.

1. Mailing takes time. Your card may arrive at a different time than your friend’s or neighbor’s.
2. Destroy your old Medicare Card. Once you get your new Medicare Card, destroy your old Medicare Card and start using your new card right away.
3. Guard your card. Only give your new Medicare Number to doctors, pharmacists, other health care providers, your insurers, or people you trust to work with Medicare on your behalf.
4. Your Medicare Number is unique. Your card has a new number instead of your Social Security Number. This new number is unique to you.
5. Your new card is paper. Paper cards are easier for many providers to use and copy, and they save taxpayers a lot of money. Plus, you can print your own replacement card if you need one!
6. Keep your new card with you. Carry your new card and show it to your health care providers when you need care.
7. Your doctor knows it’s coming. Doctors, other health care facilities and providers will ask for your new Medicare Card when you need care.
8. You can find your number. If you forget your new card, you, your doctor or other health care provider may be able to look up your Medicare Number online.
9. Keep your Medicare Advantage Card. If you’re in a Medicare Advantage Plan (like and HMO or PPO), your Medicare Advantage Plan ID card is still your main card for Medicare — you should still keep and use it whenever you need care. However, you also may be asked to show your new Medicare Card, so you should carry this card too.
10. Help is available. If you don’t get your New Medicare Card by April 2019, or if you need assistance with Medicare, please call your SHIP Counselor, Lynn Hixon, at the DeKalb County Council on Aging at 256-845-8590.

A project we’d like to initiate this month is painting the book drop box at Moon Lake Library. The box has three visible sides, so potentially three artists could each paint a side. We’d like a colorful box that will stand alone as a work of art, in addition to serving its utilitarian function. We will provide the paint, as well as a donation to the artist(s) who participate. Stop by the library for a look at the box, and see what inspiration comes to you. If you’d like to participate, please contact us.

Thanks to LRAC board member Brittney Hughes for maintaining and planting new flowers at each of the three Mentone rock signs (two are on Hwy. 117 at each end of town, and one is on Co. Rd. 89 near DeSoto Falls). These signs have been a collaborative effort between the Arts Council, MAPA, and the Town of Mentone for several years now, and we’re glad to have a hand in welcoming people to Mentone in a beautiful way.

Little River Arts Council was formed in 2006 by a people dedicated to the mission of encouraging individual creativity and broadening community participation, appreciation and support for the visual, performing, and literary arts in the Mentone Area. If you’d like to support this mission, please consider becoming a member. As individuals, we each make a difference. Together, we make beauty.

Moon Lake Community Library
by Kelly Leavitt

Our community library continues to grow into a true community hub, and this only happens because of YOU. I, personally, enjoy meeting so many people as they come through our doors. Many of our new patrons have recently moved to Mentone. When the library’s one of their first stops... well, I really appreciate that about them.

Do you love books and have three free hours a month? We’re in need of additional volunteers, so if you’d like to give your time to a wonderful cause, come on in and let us know. Volunteers help shelve books, check them in and out, etc. (If you’re talented at alphabetizing, bonus points for you!)

Free library cards are available to anyone who lives in our area. (We even have some patrons who come from Summerville.)

We are installing a large (3’ x 4’) bulletin board for the community’s use. Stop in during open hours to see what your neighbors are posting. It might be an event flyer, a job listing, a house for rent, or perhaps an inspirational saying, or a piece of art. This will be a fun board to fill up.

Chess is becoming more and more popular, and Jerry Megli is rising to the occasion. He’s in the library every Saturday at 9 a.m. sharp, and he stays until the last chess player leaves. If you’d like to learn the basics of chess, or if you’d like to refresh your skills, Jerry’s happy to help. He was once part of teams that worked on the lunar landing module and space shuttle, so you know you’re in good hands!

We have received some amazing donations lately — many books appear to be brand new. Thank you to all who donate. Our book sales are a major source of our funding, so you make a difference.

Come by and see the latest DVDs that we’ve bought and received as donations. We have some of the latest award-nominated movies. DVDs are available to borrow for a week.

We’d love to see more children in the library. Don’t let the art of library-browsing become a thing of the past. Let’s all show the children in our lives that we recognize the value of a collection of books. They do, after all, contain the world.

The library is open Tuesdays and Tuesdays from 3–6 p.m. and Saturdays from 9 a.m.–1 p.m.

See you at the library!

Kelly Leavitt is the librarian of Moon Lake Community Library.

Summer Arts Season Kickoff features Patsy Cline tribute and indigenous horses presentation

The Mentone Arts & Cultural Center (MACC) is kicking off summer with some fun and informative events that include a lecture, a Patsy Cline tribute, and a jazz performance.

The MACC Summer Art Season Kickoff is Saturday, June 9, at the MACC Education Center and Art Gallery (5951 Alabama Hwy. 117, Mentone). Visitors are invited to drop by the gallery throughout the day to see new artworks from regional artists. At 2 p.m., there will be a free presentation on indigenous horses by Dr. Yvette ‘Running Horse’ Collin.

Dr. Collin received her doctorate in Indigenous Studies from the University of Alaska, Fairbanks. Her research focused on the historical, cultural, and spiritual relationship between the Indigenous Peoples of the Americas and the horse. She is Lakota and Cheyenne on her mother’s side, and of Cherokee and Choctaw descent on her father’s side. During her decade of pre-research on this topic, she drew from the histories and traditional teachings of each of these Peoples, as well as many other Nations whose elders wished to share their knowledge.

Dr. Collin is one of the founders of Sacred Way Sanctuary (sacredwaysanctuary.org) and the Native American Horse Trail, and serves as executive director for a New Mexico-based 501(c)(3) that focuses on helping Native communities to heal. Her presentation will focus on the cutting-edge research she has done, and continues to do, in this field.

Capping off the day will be a Patsy Cline Tribute Show featuring vocalist Clare Donohue from 7–9 p.m. Admission is $15 and proceeds benefit MACC. Donohue’s tribute is a two-hour set of 15 songs made famous by Cline, impeccably executed by this New York jazz/cabaret singer who relocated to the South four years ago. From New York to Nashville, Donohue has wowed audiences with her portrayal of this musical icon with just a cowboy hat and her incredible voice.

On Friday, June 29, MACC will host an evening of jazz with the Watters/Felts Trio at 7 p.m. The trio features trumpeter/flugelhornist Ken Watters, vocalist Ingrid Marie Felts, and pianist Keith Taylor, as they perform jazz standards. Admission is $15.

In June, 1928, Hal Howe opened the doors to "Hal's Hotel" — what is known now as the Mentone Inn. The current building is the entire original structure, just as Mr. Howe built it. Since those early days, the Inn has changed hands, and names, many times over. It's been called Hal's Hotel, DeSoto Hotel, DeSoto Lodge, the Mountain View Inn, and (more than once) the Mentone Inn.

The property it sits on has an illustrious history. According to a booklet produced by Mrs. Howe, around 1873, Mr. H.B. Gillette built a 2-story boarding house near the site of the current building. It was known as the Huron Boarding House. Hal Howe rented the building and eventually bought it in 1922. With his wife, Lizzie (who died in 1929), he operated it as Hal's House until it burned in the fall of 1927. The fire was caused by blasting during the construction of Highway 117. Unbeknownst to Mr. Howe, the blasting had loosened the mortar in the chimney, and one day when a fire was lit, the entire building burned.

Not to be dismayed, Mr. Howe rebuilt the building and called it Hal's Hotel. In November, 1929, he married Nelda Ellis, and together they operated the hotel until September, 1954.

Throughout its many incarnations, it's been well-loved by its innkeepers and guests alike. The property is currently owned by Mike and Sarah Campbell, and the business of the Inn is owned by Cynthia Stinson, who is planning a celebration of the Inn's 90th anniversary. Look for details in the July Groundhog.

A Covered Bridge, Forbidden Passion, and Enduring Love

A mericans have long been enchanted by covered bridges, perhaps because they represent a deep, collective memory of simpler days gone by. Many of us remember the craze that swept the country after the 1992 publication of The Bridges of Madison County, especially after the movie was released in 1995, the year that marked the 50th anniversary of James (“Jim”) and Dallyne Tilley Jones of Mentone. That year, their daughter, Sharon, wrote the following essay in recognition of her parents’ anniversary. Part of her story speaks in particular of one of Mentone’s old covered bridges—one that’s so old that many do not know it ever existed. Back in the day when Cutler Avenue was Mentone’s main thoroughfare, a bridge spanned Little River’s west fork, connecting East and West River Roads. It was a well-travelled bridge that suddenly collapsed on a June day 73 years ago.

I first became aware of Sharon’s essay early this year. Her father had passed away in December, and when I told Sharon I’d like to print a feature story about him, she shared her essay with me. It’s just the kind of story we like to print in The Groundhog, as it speaks of the history of both Mentone and its people.

I spent most of my time with Granddaddy listening.

Listening to him talk about construction work and gas prices; listening to him sing songs from his youth; listening to him tease Grandmother; listening to him reflect on every play of last year’s Iron Bowl; listening to him pray; but most of all, listening to him tell stories.

He was part of a confederation of storytellers that I fear is swiftly dying out—men and women who understood and employed the long pause for effect. When Granddaddy told a story to a group of people, everyone in the room leaned in. He took his time. He spoke slowly and quietly. Some stories made him laugh as he recounted them. Some took him far away from us. Some made him cry.

I had the good fortune of living ten minutes away from Granddaddy and Grandmother most of my childhood and early adult life. Because of this, I was privy to his stories often—while eating lunch around the kitchen table; driving around Mentone in the front cab of his truck; lying in the swing across from his rocking chair on their front porch. Later, I began to cherish time with just him, when the stories would flow easily: driving him to and from doctors’ appointments; playing dominoes after dinner; over breakfast at the Waffle House. No matter how mundane the narrative, when Granddaddy told it, the characters and their surroundings came alive.

As someone who now makes a living writing, editing and telling others’ stories, the rapt attention of his audience, the gentle assuredness of his demeanor and the gift for imagery which he possessed are all qualities I admire and hope to possess as well.

As most folks know, Daddy grew up on Lookout Mountain about a mile from where the bridge spanned Little River. He learned to swim not far above the bridge, depending on a tow sack suspended between two empty syrup buckets to keep him afloat. And though he was only sixteen the day the bridge collapsed, that event was subsequent to one a few months earlier that had forever changed his life.

Jim and Dallyne’s granddaughter, Elizabeth (daughter of Alan and Susan [Jones] Manning), has Mentone blood that goes back many generations. Currently a magazine editor and freelance writer who lives in Birmingham, Elizabeth shares with us an introduction to her Aunt Sharon’s story, revealing the influence her grandfather’s storytelling had on her. In honor of Father’s Day, we hope you enjoy this tale about Jim Jones (1928–2017), a father of seven, grandfather of fourteen, and great-grandfather of nineteen.

Of Passion and Bridges

by Sharon Jones Harris

For the last year or so, there has been some controversy on the mountain concerning the date the old covered bridge fell. I know when the bridge fell! The story twines through my childhood memories the way the river shimmers and winds through the old rhododendron and mountain laurel thickets on its way to the falls. In all likelihood I knew the story before I could talk well enough to tell it, even though it happened while I was yet a gleam in my Daddy’s blue eyes.

As most folks know, Daddy grew up on Lookout Mountain about a mile from where the bridge spanned Little River. He learned to swim not far above the bridge, depending on a tow sack suspended between two empty syrup buckets to keep him afloat. And though he was only sixteen the day the bridge collapsed, that event was subsequent to one a few months earlier that had forever changed his life.

Now I may not have all the facts perfectly straight, but when the main characters tell the story, they don’t always agree either. Besides, my love for the tale and for the people far outweighs any small error in the telling. So, that said, let’s begin with love before first sight — this is the part hardest for me to believe!

As high school boys are wont to do, Norman McDermott and Earl (Buddy) Huron were discussing girls with young Jim Jones (Jones was still in junior high at Moon Lake) one day and a picture was shown of one Dallyne Tilley. The report was that not only was this young woman pleasant to behold, but when the main characters tell the story, they don’t always agree either. Besides, my love for the tale and for the people far outweighs any small error in the telling. So, that said, let’s begin with love before first sight — this is the part hardest for me to believe!

He learned to swim not far above the bridge, depending on a tow sack suspended between two empty syrup buckets to keep him afloat. Of Passion and Bridges

Tilley’s virtues, I don’t know what those boys said, but I am certain they didn’t exaggerate. The woman raised me, and virtues abounded along with the worthy woman bit, too. I think she was always up before dawn trying to hammer character into us from birth to marriage and beyond — by today’s theories on child rearing, we should all have rebelled, but believe me, we didn’t dare. Miss Tilley was always ahead of us.

When Jim went to Valley Head to school the next fall, he met Dallyne and, through Norman, Earl, and Fuzzy Spears, developed enough of an acquaintance that he decided to invite her to the football banquet. He and Fuzzy knocked on the classroom door (in those days the football players went to the classrooms to invite the girls to the banquet) and Mr. PW. Roberts sent Dallyne out to talk with them. Fuzzy said to my mother, “Do you want to go to the football banquet?”

She said, “Who with?”

“Jimmy, of course!”

Now Dallyne was scared to death, because she didn’t think her parents would let her go, but she said she would ask them. She did and they did and the rest is history.

Certainly there was a good bit of parental disapproval a few months later when the young people began to appear serious about each other. Remember, James T. was only sixteen and Mary Dallyne was seventeen. I used to watch my own children at those ages and try to imagine how my Grandmother Tilley and Grandmother Jones felt during that courtship. But the young folks’ main defense of their relationship was that they were both Baptists, Democrats, and had grown up drying on sack towels. I wonder they didn’t throw in things about hand-cranked well buckets, communal water dippers and outdoor toilets — all things I remember from my grandparents’ houses.

The date of the elopement was set for Saturday, June 23, 1945. Jim had gone to Fort Payne the Saturday before to buy a brown woolen suit and that suit was secreted away at Aunt Almeda Blevins’ house. He was going to walk up to Floyd Bailey’s store on the old road and Aunt Almeda’s, change clothes, proceed back across the bridge and on to Sand Mountain to pick up Mama. But lo! On Wednesday, June 20, a state truck was crossing the bridge and down came bridge, truck, men and all. I still see weathered planks splintering and falling with sprays of water creating millions of tiny rainbows shining against the old rock pilings. The men walked away and up to Papa Jones’ to call for help. Only, the elopement plans were foiled.

Having little choice in the matter, on Saturday following, young Jim (as a child, when I pictured this, my Daddy was grown up — now, at forty-eight, I see him as half child, half young adult) donned his white shirt, put his tie in his back pocket and proceeded on foot to Floyd Bailey’s. After securing said automobile, he had to drive past the house on the old road on the way to Almeda’s and again after putting on his suit. At which point, Aunt Juanita commented that Jim must be going to get married, because he left with his tie in his hip pocket and came up the road from Almeda’s in Luther Kirby’s car in a new suit! Mama and Daddy were married in Rising Fawn, Georgia, by Justice of the Peace Hale with Mrs. Hale and my Aunt Ruth as witnesses. My greatest concern about this event is that of course they lied about their ages; does that make their marriage illegal and are we all illegitimate offspring? Oh well, I reckon we won’t worry about things we can’t change!

At any rate other folks are currently making lots of money on books and movies about bridges and passion, and the passion is something I know about, too! There were seven of us (six living) and neither Mama nor Daddy was Roman Catholic — to borrow a Manning expression, they are passionate Baptists!

Daddy would come home from work and it didn’t matter how many of us were around (and we weren’t quiet children, our presence was always felt or heard) — if Mama wasn’t there, nobody was. He always kissed her on coming in the door as if nobody else was in the whole world. We were shut out, but there was security in that shutting out! And if he wanted her to go somewhere with him, she always had the good sense to put down whatever she was doing, leave the dishes on the table or in the sink and go. Now that I’m old enough to have grandchildren of my own (my children take note of this fact) and I’ve heard it said that the secret to raising children right is for their Daddy to love their Mother, I realize that what relationship we saw daily meant to us.

So while others write of bridges and forbidden love, the Jones children have been blessed to see the real thing up close: love that survived and built on the impetuous fires of youth, spanned the loss of a child, pulled through recessions, endured church splits, tamed head-strong teenagers, and withstood other things I don’t even know about. Their marriage stands, a monument to all that is real and permanent, a symbol to me and my brother and sisters and to our children that there are things that stand and last in this throw-away world — as surely as the old rock pilings stand in Little River to remind us of that week fifty years ago when we all began.

A good marriage is a strong cord that binds up the lives of its offspring, that holds them in the tempests of money on books and movies about bridges and passion, and the passion is something I know about, too! There were seven of us (six living) and neither Mama nor Daddy was Roman Catholic — to borrow a Manning expression, they are passionate Baptists!

A good marriage is a strong cord that binds up the lives of its offspring, that holds them in the tempests and lends strength to all those who know it. So when you have occasion to round the big curve going down to Aunt Marjorie Berry’s house, look down at the river, and know that as long as those pilings stand, they represent things that are more permanent than almost anything else in the world.

Rhododendron Festival Shuttles and Paid Parking
by Sharon Habin

The Rhododendron Festival was lovely and low-key. Sales were modest, however that has not stopped vendors from inquiring about applications for Colorfest. Applications for Colorfest will be available in July.

MAPA would like to thank the Mentone Arts & Cultural Center board for allowing us to use the future site of the Cultural Center for parking, as well as Mentone Community Church for being a back-up parking location.

Rhododendron Festival attendance is typically smaller than Colorfest and it may have been lower than usual this year. If so, I believe it was due to worrying about the weather forecast. Some vendors did not come because of the forecast. The shuttles were extremely timely, with little traffic. Less than 40 cars parked in the out-of-town festival parking. This meant people were parking as usual, often in places that are not useful to traffic flow or private property. This was an excellent trial run to see what worked and what needs improvement, as well as unforeseen difficulties.

The health and safety of everyone in town is important. Plans will be discussed to improve signage, communication, and distribution of information. This involves the mayor, police chief, MAPA, festival chair, and volunteers.

If you have thoughts or ideas you would like considered, please email mapamentone@gmail.com or write MAPA, PO Box 50, Mentone, AL 35984.

River Voice • by Bill Shugart

As summer is trying its best to hurry spring-time out of the way, our children have finished out the school year. Counselors, campers, and visitors are beginning to arrive on the mountain and it seems everyone is making plans to visit their favorite swimming hole.

I hear folks talk about going to the Hippie Hole, High Rock, Canyon Mouth Park, Taylor’s Ford, the Pot Hole, Slant Rock, or DeSoto Falls. Some folks are even lucky enough to have a spot all of their own. One thing all river people hold in common is their love of the water. And this time of year, the water is clear and clean. It’s perfect for swimming and fishing.

In years past, I’ve gone swimming before the daffodils even popped out. But this year I’ve been a little reserved about jumping in. I’ve waited long enough. It’s May 24 and it’s time for me to take the plunge.

I tested the water with my foot as I stood on a rock near the AA Miller Dam and looked at the red boathouse. My 11-year-old daughter, El, and I counted to three. “Come on, Dad, let’s jump!” she said.

As I set my mind as to how I was going to make my grand entrance, I had a side-thought. I looked out at swollen bunches of Mountain Laurel drooping towards the water and said to myself, “Man, the spring flowers put on such a great show this year.” A towering black cumulous cloud was looming over the hill. No thunder or lightening. “One!” I said. “...Two!” The sound of the water rushing over the dam near me was mesmerizing. “…Three!!! JUMP!” we shouted.

I went full on. No holding back. I hit the water with a stride jump. It was a little brisk at first.

As I cleared the water from my face, I felt a whole lot better. I felt renewed in a sense. And I realized that this swim confirmed that the summer is here. Swim Season is ON!

We went back and jumped again. We got lost watching bluegill on their beds chase away the smaller fish. It was a good day.

So, river people, hear me when I say this. If you haven’t jumped in the river yet this year, I would like to encourage you to use any and all means at your disposal. Pry your keister out of your comfy spot and get yourself to the river! As you know, it’s good for the soul.

Now, If you are one of the early birds who’s been swimming since before the last frost, send us some of your favorite pictures and tell us your favorite way to enjoy Little River. We’ll share them on the Little River Waterkeeper site and our Facebook page and give you @ #shoutout!

As the summer moves along, you may find yourself wondering, “Is my swimming hole getting funky?” Maybe the water seems a little less attractive or it has a funny smell. Well, you’re in luck. You can see the results of our weekly water test results on our website at littleriverwaterkeeper.org.

If you want the Red Light / Green Light version of the test results, go to theswimguide.org. You can also download the free Swim Guide app, which is easy to use.

So, we want you to “know before you go”. Get the low-down before you go down. Get the skinny before you dip. Ya hip? None of us wants our babies to be swimming in stuff they shouldn’t.

If you spot pollution on the river, report it. Call 256-516-2877 and ask for the Little River Waterkeeper. As always, don’t ever litter! If you see litter, pick it up and carry it out. It’s important that our river stay clean.

In closing, I want to extend a very warm welcome to all of you who are passing through. Whether you might be working here for the summer or are only here for a minute, you are a part of this magical place. We hope you fall in love with Mentone, Little River, and Lookout Mountain. Help us make a difference while you’re here. Strike up friendly conversations. Wave at random people. Drive slowly. Watch out for dogs, bikes and kids. Pick up trash if you see it. Do nice things for no apparent reason. Reduce, Recycle and Reuse. These things are also good for the soul.

Jason’s Pie Crust
Submitted by Jason Druebert

In a mixing bowl combine the following dry ingredients:
- 1/2 heaping cup of all purpose flour (such as Gold Medal)
- 1/2 heaping cup of White Lily flour
- 1 Tbs sugar
- 1 tsp salt (more if using kosher)

Cube one stick of high quality (organic, or with higher fat content) cold butter and cut it into the dry mixture with a pastry blender, food processor, or even your hands. Mix until the pieces of butter are mostly pea-sized & coated with the dry mix. Add 1/3 cup of good water, preferably very cold. Gently fold the mixture several times in the bowl using a rubber spatula or your hands until barely combined. Dump contents onto a clean workspace. It will be loose. Use your hands to gently combine & knead the dough until it is consistent enough to shape into a ball & flatten into a disc (about 2” thick). Wrap disc with cling wrap & refrigerate for about an hour. Unwrap the disc & lightly flour each side before returning it to the work surface. Use a rolling pin to roll uniformly flat & large enough for a 9” pie pan. Should be about the thickness of two stacked quarters. Place in the pan, press dough into the bottom of the pan, and trim corners. Cover & place into the fridge for at least an hour, overnight if possible. This rest will help it keep its shape.

Bake per your pie recipe.

Volunteer at Little River Canyon National Preserve
by Larry Beane

Little River Canyon National Preserve depends heavily on volunteers to serve the quarter- to half-million visitors who visit the park every year. The volunteers provide information to visitors in the beautiful eco-friendly Little River Canyon Center and at Little River Falls. Working positions added throughout the park this year are for maintenance, visitor safety, trail monitoring, litter pickup and educational assistants. This includes staffing new locations such as Canyon Mouth and overlooks on busy days and holidays. Training begins soon for these volunteer positions. For more information, call Larry Beane at Little River Canyon National Preserve, 256-845-9605.

There are different types of volunteers. Our greatest needs are for volunteers to greet visitors both at the front desk and at Little River Falls. Other locations in the park are important, but not as critical. People call and visit the Canyon Center front desk asking for directions, information, and to see the movie. If you like interacting with people, this is one of the more rewarding volunteer positions you can take on.

For those who would rather be outside and do physical labor, the park needs maintenance assistance all year. The park does not have a trails crew. We need people to hike or walk our trails to report downed trees, spot hazards, and help keep the litter picked up. Resources management is able to train people in special habitat restoration and resources monitoring. Retired teachers who miss the teachable moments work well as educational assistants for school group educational field trips.

The park provides free uniforms to identify people as volunteers, as well as specific safety equipment and other materials, as needed. Experienced volunteers and staff train and mentor new volunteers. Our volunteers are extremely important members of the park family, and for their safety, volunteers cannot participate in dangerous situations such as fire, rope rescue and law enforcement. It is an enjoyable way to gain experience, meet visitors from all over the world, and improve the visitor experience for everyone.

Park Superintendent Steve Black invites you to come enjoy the park, and consider volunteering. Check out our webpage at nps.gov/liri. You can follow our updates and find park pictures on Facebook at LIRINPS.

Nestled in the woods atop Lookout Mountain, near Mentone, Alabama, this quaint little chapel is surrounded by ferns, forest and flowers. The chapel is a scaled version of traditional Appalachian churches of days gone by. Stained glass windows filtering soft forest sunrays and soft organ music accent an ambience fitting the wedding ceremony. Inside, wooden pews will seat approximately 60 guests.

Linda Patterson, owner of the chapel, said the idea for it began with a bell, and now that bell rings as newlyweds exit the door of the chapel.

Kallup McCoy II, a young member of the Eastern Band of Cherokees, is running the entire length of the route taken by the John Benge Detachment that began in DeKalb County during the removal of the Cherokees in 1838 — an event also known as the "Trail of Tears".

His mother, Ruth, is following him and coordinating his run, which he is undertaking to both honor his ancestors and to draw attention to opioid addiction among the Cherokees. Kallup is in long-term recovery after more than 14 years of addiction. He experienced six overdoses and was saved from the brink of death three times with naloxene, which is used for the emergency treatment of opioid overdose.

Kallup actually began his run from the Kituwah Mound near Cherokee, NC, and arrived in Fort Payne on May 21, where he was met by Olivia Baxter Cox and Randy Cochran of Landmarks of DeKalb County.

Fort Payne is significant to the Trail of Tears. The town is named after the fort where the Cherokees were held in advance of their forced exile westward. It is thought that Captain John Payne was the U.S. Army officer who was in command of the fort.

Kallup visited the site of a cabin that was enclosed within the stockade. At the time of the removal, the cabin was owned by Spirit the Preacher, a Cherokee also known as John Huss. All that remains is a solitary stone chimney.

The detachment that began its journey in Fort Payne did not travel with a military escort. This detachment was placed under the leadership of John Benge, a Cherokee leader called a "conductor". The Benge Detachment traveled a different route from any of the other detachments. You can learn more at nationaltota.com/alabama.

Once in Fort Payne, Kallup resumed his run starting at the historical cabin site on Gault Avenue.

Kallup then ran to the Lebanon community, and on to the top of Sand Mountain. His final destination is the Cherokee capital in Tahlequah, Oklahoma. That's about 900 miles.

Larry Smith is the vice president of the Alabama Trail of Tears Association.

The Experimental Aircraft Association (EAA) offered free flights for kids ages 8–17 at the Fort Payne airport on May 19, and I was one of the many people who got to fly that day (I’m 13). Pilot Charles Cole flew two other passengers and me on a Cessna T210 N732VP with retractable landing gear. This was the second time I had flown. The first time was last year; I had also become an EAA member. I’ve always wanted to become a pilot in the Air Force, and the EAA Young Eagles Program is helping me to achieve that dream.

There was enough room for all of us to have a window seat, and I got to sit up front. This time, only the pilot had headphones, but when I flew last year, both the pilot and I had headphones. I liked that because I was able to hear the people at the airport talking to the pilot. I felt like I was an adult who was part of the crew.

When I was in the air, it was like nothing else in the world. When I’m flying, it makes me feel like I can do anything — like I’m invincible. I can’t explain how AWESOME it was being up there. It was more exciting than the rides at the fair, and the excitement lasted longer.

I didn’t realize how cloudy it was until I was in the air and the clouds surrounded me. My parents and I wondered if they were going to cancel the flights because of the storm clouds. The EAA had already postponed the original flights in April because of the rain, but luckily they didn’t have to this time. We flew right in front of a semi-dark storm cloud. The clouds surprised me by being smaller in volume in the air compared to looking very big and fluffy from the ground.

I noticed that everything looks smaller and different in the air from on the ground. The Earth even looks smaller as a whole. I had noticed that from a ground view, small mountains look like they end in a point, but really, some have a flat top. We even had enough time to fly over my house this time! It looked totally different, so different that I could barely recognize it. From the air, it’s easier to tell which lakes and ponds might be connected by an underground stream. You can see small indentions from the air that you can’t really see while on the ground. You can also tell from the placement of them and how close they are together, whether they may be connected. For example, there’s a lake on the top of a mountain, and right at the base there is a small pond. It looked like they were connected by an underground stream.

After you fly, you get a certificate and logbook for keeping up with your flights. The EAA was giving out free T-shirts and caps. Several times a year, the EAA offers these free flights for youth, and I would highly recommend that you take the opportunity to fly when you can. For more information on Fort Payne’s EAA chapter, search EAA 890 on Facebook or go to 890.eaachapter.org. For information about the Young Eagles program, go to their website at YoungEagles.org.

Menlo’s Reading Buddies Program

Menlo Elementary School and Menlo Housing Authority support a reading program for the children of Menlo School. Glenda Hamilton of the Housing Authority finds adults to act as reading mentors for the children. Every child is paired with an adult at the beginning of the school year and they meet once every month at the Lawrence Center in Menlo. This year, the children were from the 4th and 5th grade gifted program. Mentor and child pick out a new book every month and both read it during the month. The school provides the books and transports the children to the Lawrence Center. The housing authority gives the school money to buy books, provides refreshments at the monthly meeting, and finds volunteers to mentor each child.

Glenda is always looking for mentors. The program starts again with the new school year in September 2018 and runs through April 2019. Anyone interested in mentoring a child can contact Glenda at menlohousing@windstream.net, 706-862-2240, or 706-862-2130. Both mentors and children love and gain so much from this program. Please join us.

In April, reading mentors provided a hot dog & hamburger lunch to their buddies.

Summertime Safety

(Don’t let the ticks get you down)

by Kelly Leavitt

According to the Center for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), the best way to remove a tick is with a pair of fine-tipped tweezers. Pull upward with steady, even pressure. Do not ever crush a tick with your fingers, as this might facilitate the injection of saliva. Do not twist the tick, as this might remove its body but leave the head embedded in your skin. (If the head does get detached, don’t panic—disease is not transmitted in this way. Do your best to remove the head, but if you cannot, leave it alone and let your body heal.) After removing the tick, wash your hands and the bite area with soap and water or with alcohol.

The CDC recommends disposing of a live tick by putting it in alcohol, placing it in a sealed bag/container, wrapping it tightly in tape, or flushing it down the toilet. If you develop a rash or fever within several weeks of removing a tick, see your doctor. Be sure to tell the doctor about your recent tick bite, when the bite occurred, and where you most likely acquired the tick.

It is advisable to educate yourself beyond this article. Enjoy your summer and don’t fret about being outdoors — but do be keenly observant.
