How do you describe the thoughts and emotions brought about by the ending of the old year and beginning of the New Year? For me, it can be summed up in two words – resolutions and memories.

The coming of each New Year triggers the desire to do better in this year than we did in the last. Some people make long, detailed lists of what they resolve to do in the New Year and others just make silent promises to themselves. No matter how we show it (or not) New Year resolutions are made by almost everyone. The simple fact of making resolutions helps us understand what we want from our community and ourselves and what is needed to make it so.

This issue of The Groundhog includes some “Mentone Resolutions” that highlight the promise of Mentone and hopefully will bring about introspection, smiles and even laughter. We hope you enjoy them.

While resolutions spur us on with plans and action, memories bring out our emotional response to last year’s events. Our memories of last year may trigger feelings of hope, joy, despair, hate, fear, love, or even pride.

However, when we think of outstanding members of our community lost during the past year we have mixed emotions of pride, love, sorrow and an overpowering sense of loss. Linda Brown and Homer Crow were two such people. We honor their memory with a brief summary of what they did for and what they meant to Mentone. Each gave immensely of their time and energy and subsequently improved the lives of their families and neighbors and made Mentone a better place to live.

Homer Crow

Homer Crow loved his wife Bernise, his family and his community. Homer Crow loved the life he lived and wished the same for everyone else. He was born in 1922, grew up in these mountains and served in World War II in Australia and The Philippines. Homer always worked. He began in construction, then created his own company in Chattanooga, “retired” to Mentone and owned and operated Crow’s Nest Antiques with Bernise and then began another business in Fort Payne.

While Homer’s professional life was full and successful, he found time to contribute to the Mentone community in many ways. He and

by Ray Padgett

The year was 1953(September) when Linda Cochran fell on the back steps of Valley Head High School. Her knee was skinned, I was close by and saw what happened--lucky for me. I helped her up and made a bandage from my handkerchief and wrapped her knee. This was the start of a long and loving relationship. Linda became Linda C. Brown on October 17, 1954.

We lived in Gadsden for a little more than a year. This was her senior year in school. She was always determined and finished her senior year by working with her teachers by picking up her class work and then getting it back to the

MENTONE MATTERS
By Mayor Rob Hammond

Mentone had a rough start to 2014. The Mentone Springs Hotel burned in March. Town Hall and Kamama’s suffered flood damage in April. There was damage to several town and country roads at the same time. FEMA reimbursed the town for most of the damage we suffered, and the county received FEMA funds to repair the wash out on County Road 631.

Financially, the town continues to operate in the black. Our revenues remain steady. Last year we were able to pave Cutler Avenue and still keep a little operating cushion. Hopefully we will do some paving this year but it will not be as extensive as the Cutler Avenue project.

There is positive news in town. The camps had good enrollments; our festivals were well attended; and looking at sale tax receipts, most businesses have done better or remained about the same.

Progress continues to be made in creating the Mentone Arts and Cultural Center. Three acres have been donated for the site, and second year architectural students from Auburn University will visit in February for a site visit. They will participate in a design competition for the center.

I had the privilege of sharing a Christmas dinner with our volunteer firefighters, policemen, and their families. It was a great time. We are blessed to live in a community where people give so unselfishly of themselves and their resources.

In his 1962 Christmas address President Kennedy said, “It is a day we remind ourselves that man can and must live in peace with his neighbors and that it is the peacemakers who are truly blessed.”

From The Editor

Each New Year always brings thoughts of resolutions, promises, and questions about what to do in the coming year. For some reason I usually think of Little Orphan Annie and the song she so aptly and beautifully sang, “Just thinkin’ about tomorrow, clears away the cobwebs”. Thinking about tomorrow leads to dreaming and sometimes even planning--this helps guide us to where and what we want for our community and ourselves.

Mentone and diversity go hand in hand. Our community is made up of farmers, builders, craftsmen, small business owner/operators, retirees and camp owners/workers galore. The daily celebration of music and art permeates this entire patchwork quilt of backgrounds. While this diversity makes Mentone one of the most interesting and creative communities in America, it sometimes makes it more difficult to agree on a shared vision of what Mentone will be like in 5, 10, or 20 years from now. No matter what road is taken, Mentone citizens have the right and responsibility to determine and create this road together.

Let’s grow in a manner that celebrates and respects each others differences, provides a safe place for children and retirees to enjoy our natural world, provides a catalyst for young people to seek their own dreams, and maybe even allow those who wish to remain and earn their livelihood in Mentone.

What would you like to see in Mentone’s future? “Oh, the sun’ll come out tomorrow”, what will our community be like, where will our children be, and what will our grandchildren think about Mentone? Every citizen has a voice--let’s all be heard together in 2015. Let’s continue to show the world that we are the friendliest town in Alabama and that we have a dream.

petticoats, and admire her immeasurable grace. No matter her individual impact through her 130 years, she was always held up as the symbol of Mentone by town folks and visitors alike. Her legacy will fade quickly for most, but will live in the hearts of a few for the rest of their lives. May the dream of Mentone's wooden angel live with us and guide Mentone's future.

Bernise were among a handful of neighbors who started the Mentone Area Preservation Association (MAPA) in the early eighties and kicked off The Groundhog monthly newspaper-- all volunteer work. For years, Homer led and did yeoman's work for Mentone festivals and events.

One of my favorite stories was about Homers action while he was Chair of the Mentone Colorfest. This particular year, Southern Living included a major article about Mentone and Colorfest in their October issue. Needless to say, Mentone was swamped with people during Colorfest. As always, David Gilbreath led the local Boy Scout Troop in parking cars for the festival. However, there were so many people that cars were stopped and lined up all the way to AL Hwy 117. Everyone began complaining to Homer about the congested traffic so Homer ran up to ask David what was taking so long to get the cars parked. David told Homer the parking lot was full, to which Homer replied, "that can't be helped, we have to park all these cars, they're causing a traffic jam". David still laughs about what he calls the "Southern Living Festival".

We could all take guidance from Homer Crow's quiet, hard working commitment to Mentone and it's people. His steady hand, always-helpful attitude and wry sense of humor are greatly missed by his family, friends and the Mentone community.

teachers. While living in Gadsden she brought into this world our first child, a daughter, Gail. We moved back to Mentone in 1956. We bought our first home in October 1956 on Cove Road, a small white house next to the American Legion Hall. Our second child, Charles, was born in 1957, and in 1961, our third child was brought into this world, a daughter, Carol.

Linda soon became involved in school activities at Moon Lake School and continued to do so until all our children went to Valley Head High School. In later years, she tutored Moon Lake students through the MERF program.

Linda was a member of the Mentone United Methodist Church for 54 years where she was involved in every office of the church. She taught Sunday School classes for both children and adults and worked with Vacation Bible schools, as well as planning retreats and fundraisers.

She was always involved with our children, teaching them how to work and how to play. She taught me, Bobby, about life.

Linda also stayed busy with Garden Clubs at local, county and state levels. She was a charter member of the Rhododendron Garden Club and worked many hours with the area clubs every year putting together the VFW Fair flower shows. She also helped organize a junior Garden Club at Moon Lake School.

Linda was always interested in politics and served Mentone as a council member and as mayor. She finished the term of one mayor and worked tirelessly to get the sidewalk along Highway 117 from the post office to the Hitching post. She was on the committee to bring the community and Moon Lake Library to reality and this became a vital part of the Mentone community. She was a member of DeSoto Rescue Squad in its early years when nuclear fallout was a major concern and was involved with community preparation if this happened.

We squared danced for 25 years as members of the DeSoto Squares and danced in Fort Payne and Rainsville. We attended some state and national square dance conventions often camping at the location of the conventions. She enjoyed 'camper' camping, except having to pack the camper before and having to clean it out after. We camped throughout the Smoky Mountains and Alabama State Parks.

Linda worked several years delivering meals to those who needed them through a county program. She also worked the voting polls for years where she loved talking to people as they came in to vote. And she was proud of being a 'yellow-dog' Democrat. As an originator of the Mentone Crafts Festival, she served for many years as chairperson to make sure that it was a high-quality festival.

She attended the NACC and taking college courses in the 1980's by driving to classes for two years. Her desire to learn was never satisfied, and she read anything she could get her hands on. She could discuss any subject and loved a disagreement. Her way of arguing with you would bring you around to her way of thinking and you would never know it.

In 1997, we started building a new house. Linda was in hog heaven selecting materials and going through lots of house plans. She loved selecting paint, wallpaper, cabinets, windows and doors. When the house was finished, she started talking about and looking forward to building again.

Most recently, Linda served as secretary and treasurer for the North Lookout Mountain Fire Protection District for the past 15 years. She worked every day to keep the records correct and to help the firemen lower Mentone's ISO rating so the residents could enjoy lower insurance rates.

These are just a few of the many activities that Linda was involved with over the years. She did so much in the community and for people that no one really knew about --- not even me --- until after the fact. But she also enjoyed family gatherings with her parents and siblings. And she enjoyed gatherings with my side of the family. But Linda's greatest times were spent with her children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

This Olde House: MERF Community House

My boards may be a little creaky and my paint a little flaky but I am full of life. I continue to open my doors to the young and the wise so my walls are full of joy, laughter and learning.

What a wonderful fall it has been at the MERF house. Kids have been tutored, pianos have been played, groups have gathered, plans for the future have been made and good meals have been enjoyed. Senior lunches ended on a high note with a wonderful Christmas party on December 10th. Mrs. Long’s Kindergartners started the festivities off with fun holiday songs ending with an entrance by wonderful St. Nick. A wonderful meal was provided by Greg Coe followed by poetry from the Black Hat Poet and great singing from everyone. Santa and his elves sent a goodie bag home with each person and a great picture with him. The senior lunch bunch crew always has a good time and the party was no exception. Thanks to all the elves that made it happen. MERF’s facebook page has pictures of many with Santa. Please like us.

Moon Lake students were busy this December getting ready for their Christmas program on December 16th. Hope everyone got a chance to see all the kids at their finest. Not sure who was more excited—the kids or Ms. Paula!

MERF added some energy this fall too with an addition to our board of Yon Hopper. The board meetings just went up another level of fun and vision for 2015. MERF is so thankful for everyone that supports our programs through their time and through their financial support. May this next year bring more enrichment to each of our lives.

Happy New Year to a wonderful Mentone community!

MBA Year-End Wrap-Up

By Robert Hoffman, MBA President

By the time you read this, 2014 will be over … or almost over. I thought that an appropriate topic would be to review what the Mentone Business Association has accomplished in 2014 and maybe talk a little about what we plan in 2015.

When we first started the association in April, several of the business people that we talked to told us that it had been tried before and failed. I never heard exactly why the earlier attempts failed, but it’s looking like we might “succeed” – depending upon your definition of succeed. I just counted and we now have 39 members representing 26 Mentone area businesses. Many have been unable to attend our monthly meetings because they live out of town, but we’ve managed to stay pretty well in touch using email and phone calls. We still have no dues, but we’ve managed to stay pretty well in touch using email and phone calls. We still have no dues, but have asked for contributions now and then to cover some necessary activities. We continue to encourage more people to join, as each new person comes with some new suggestions as to what we should plan to do. Our monthly meetings are the 3rd Monday from 6:00-7:00 at the MERF House, except for the December meeting, which we held along with a social hour at the Mentone Mountain View Inn hosted by Innkeeper Joe Piscatelli. Our meetings are generally informal, sometimes with an agenda, but often just talking about whatever the attendees consider important.

We spent our first few months just deciding when to meet, choosing a logo, electing officers, setting up a web page, and putting together a rough plan of activities and events. By July, we were ready for the MAAC Julyfest and set up a booth to publicize the businesses of Mentone and offer some discounts to potential shoppers. We set up a similar booth at the MAPA Colorfest in October, distributing a variety of information to encourage festival attendees to shop in Mentone. At Colorfest, our Vice-President, Debra Fey, coordinated the Scavenger Hunt and another member, Lisa Schad, directed the Pumpkin Patch Jubilee. Both were a great success in familiarizing festival guests with our local businesses and providing them with a fun experience. During the summer months between July and October, we distributed “Business Packages” to our members that managed Bed & Breakfast rentals. The packages contained our Mentone map, rack cards for member businesses, and other information to provide B&B customers with a view of shopping opportunities in the Mentone area.

Our last “big” event of the year was to join with Log Cabin Village and their annual Christmas party to host a Holiday Open House Weekend on November 28-30. We publicized the event throughout northern Alabama and Georgia, and southern Tennessee. It went very well, with only a few minor glitches, and most of our local businesses had a very profitable and fun weekend. Many served cider, cookies, or other snacks, and we had music provided by the St. Joseph’s bells, Santa Claus at the Log Cabin Village, and early Christmas decorations all over town. So many people contributed to the success of that weekend that I’d like to thank them here:

- Thanks to Karen Beasley for advertising our event. Thanks to Kelly Leavitt for creating and distributing advertising flyers around the area. Thanks to all who made the donations that allowed us to pay her and to purchase a few Open House signs. Thanks to all of the businesses that took part, decorating their shops real early for Christmas, serving refreshments to the shoppers, and extending their hours a little.
- Thanks to Mayor Rob Hammond for scheduling the Christmas lights early this year, in time for our weekend event, and thanks to Steve Flannigan for doing the work to get the lights on.
- Thanks to Melinda Baugh at St. Joseph’s Episcopal Church for scheduling the bells to play Christmas songs all weekend. Thanks to Joey Smith for playing his part so expertly at Log Cabin Village.

And that’s 2014. Plans for 2015 are to continue to support the MAAC and MAPA festivals throughout the year and to make our Holiday Open House Weekend an annual event. We also have a list of over 20 ideas that we’d like to implement at some point and we’ll continue working to find new ways to accomplish our mission of sponsoring or supporting activities that will benefit businesses and business growth in the Mentone area. For more details on what we did in 2014 and plans for 2015, check out our web page at MBA.MyMentone.com.

We wish all of you a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year and hope you’ll spend some of your holiday shopping time in our local shops. You’ll be hearing more from your MBA in 2015! Our next MBA meeting is the 3rd Monday of January, the 19th, from 6:00 to 7:00 and you’re all invited. It will likely be at the MERF House, but check out our web page to make sure. As we say every month, join us, contribute your ideas, and help us help the local businesses to be as successful as possible.
Remember When . . .
By Angie Carden

The Groundhog printed a tribute to Sue McLaurin Henry written by Dr. Bill Berry in January of 2010. Ms. Henry was a well loved lady on this mountain. She was a mild 17-year-old freshman at Mississippi State College for Women when she was hired as a tennis instructor for Camp DeSoto’s 1948 camping season. In 1978, she purchased the camp and remained there until she sold it to Phil and Marsha Hurt in 1991. Dr. Berry wrote “Sue’s many familiar quotations defined her life and philosophy, and they will always remain part of the Camp DeSoto legacy. Her pithy sayings are perhaps best summed up by the eight words with which she concluded daily staff meetings ‘Have a good day, give a good day.’ Although simple, these words serve both to recognize and to encourage the goodness that Sue saw in each person and in each day. Sue’s distinctive perspectives on human relationships and life purposes could be defined by four themes: justice, service, peace, love—that she consistently promoted through her words, actions, and instruction.”

To me, her wonderful attitude and personality will always be a model for us all. And I do hope we all remember to “Have a good day, give a good day” throughout this New Year!

Hoppin' In The New Year!

I know I gave you guys a recipe for Hoppin John about two years ago, but it's such a tradition in my family, I decided to give you another! It's supposed to help bring about luck and prosperity, but honestly, I love it because it's just delicious! So, I've made a variation for you. I hope you will give it a try and I do wish you all a very Happy New Year.

Happy New Year and Happy Cooking!

Hoppin’ John Risotto

Don't be alarmed! Risotto is not hard to make! It just requires some love and time!

In a saucepan, heat 5 cups of chicken stock to almost boiling. You just want it good and steamy. Meanwhile, in a dutch oven or heavy bottomed soup pot, over low-med heat, saute 2 chopped shallots (or 1 small, chopped onion) and 4-5 chopped slices of bacon with 1 stalk finely chopped celery in 2 tbsp of butter. When the bacon is beginning to crisp and the shallots and celery are softening, add 1 ½ c of Arborio rice, stir to coat. Now the love begins! Add ½ c of your hot chicken stock and stir gently until it completely absorbed. And this process you will repeat until the liquid is all used! Be patient and gentle, and I promise you will have a perfect and creamy risotto! When you add the last ½ c of stock, add 1 can of drained black eyed peas. Stir until the liquid is absorbed and VIOLA! You will have a gorgeous pot of creamy Hoppin’ John Risotto!

MOON LAKE COMMUNITY LIBRARY

HOURS:
TUES. and THURS. 3:00-5:00
SAT. 9-12

NEW CALENDARS are available at Kamama’s, Town Hall and the library.

Featuring original art by a Moon Lake Elementary School fourth grader!
On December 5th, the VHS Library was once again converted into a living “Museum of Literature” for Mrs. Lasser’s senior class project. The students divide into groups and choose a book to read. On the day of the Museum enactment, they dress up in character, display programs, present spin-off products, have visual displays, bring props, and must do an oral presentation. This included everything from broken glasses and hand-made gauntlet gloves to rose bouquets and a candle-lit dining table. Why anyone would choose to read “Lord of the Flies” is beyond me, but they did an excellent presentation. The ladies from “Wuthering Heights” transformed half of the library into 2 separate hotels. A few other ladies ‘proudly’ and romantically portrayed the story of “Pride and Prejudice.” Another group of unexplainable characters from middle-Earth did a great exhibit of “The Hobbit.” I commend all the students on their efforts and am very proud of the teachers for encouraging (um...requiring) these efforts. This will certainly help prepare our students for college curriculum as well as life experiences.

Muddy Roads
By: Doug Kiker

Back when I was a boy,
Travel in a car right after a rain
Could be quite a pain,
Not a joy.
Muddy Roads--
I remember when paved roads were rare,
The first time I saw one, it made me stare.
Back then, this kind of road was a “blacktop.”
Sometimes a muddy road was so bad,
It really would make you mad,
When you got going, you might not be able to stop,
When you did stop, it was very hard to start.
Ruts—they were there—bless your heart;
Could lead you to the ditch,
Or north or south, ruts determined the way a car would go.
Be that fast or slow,
Often, the second car couldn’t choose exactly where it’s slipping and sliding would end.

Much of this on the ruts would depend.
In wet seasons Daddy kept Pearl Mule ready
To aid a distressed neighbor when in the ditch he did spin.
He never took money—to do so he said would be sin.

The Life and Legend of Granny Dollar

By Will Dillard

What constitutes a legend? According to the dictionary 'It is a story in which a kernel of truth is embellished to an unlikely degree'. This I believe is a good description of the legend of Granny Dollar.

This is the 6th and final article about the life of Nancy Emmaline Callahan who became known as Granny Dollar.

Granny’s Final Days and Death

During the years that Granny lived on the Master Schools property she became quite a tourist attraction. Anytime a writer or dignitary visited Col. Howard the trip wasn’t complete without a visit to meet and talk with Granny. When they arrived they were given the only chair Granny had, a straight-backed chair with a leather seat. Granny would take a seat on a nail keg.

Granny was known as a fortune teller and would use the blade of a rusty old knife to trace the lines in a visitor’s hand and tell their fortune. Granny was also known as a herb doctor and had many natural cures. She claimed that she could cure cancer but told visitors that she couldn’t tell a fortune and offer a cure in the same visit because curing was God’s work and “conjuring” or “fortune telling” was the Devil’s.

Granny survived on her own by raising vegetables and herbs and with donations of food from her neighbors. Her strong constitution was an asset needed to survive during hard times. She said that the problem with the white race was that they spent too much time putting away for their old age and had lost the connection with the earth. Most of the time you would see Granny barefoot and working in her garden, it was this connection that she was speaking of. Col. Howard had once commented that he felt that Granny would succumb to old age during the winter when she wasn’t able to be outside and active.

Many of the local residents have told of visits to see Granny and enjoyed her stories of her life. She could almost always be seen with her corn cob pipe hanging out of her mouth and it would miraculously stay in place as she talked and it moved around between the gaps in her teeth. Although her neighbors talked about enjoying their visits with Granny all of them feared her mongrel dog Buster. He was her constant companion and protector. On one occasion Floyd Cordell and a group of boys came by Granny’s cabin at night and decided to taunt Buster. They clapped their hands and began yelling. After Buster came out barking Granny let out an Indian war whoop and yelled, “Get ‘em Buster” and the boys took off running.

By January 1931 Granny, now aged 105, had been bedridden for several weeks, her body swollen with fluid from edema, also known at the time as “dropsy.” Many of her neighbors came by during this time to take care of Granny. Dee Gilliam and his two sons would come by every day or two to check on Granny since she had been sick. On one occasion when he stopped by Granny told him to look in one of the three trunks that made up the only other furniture Granny had and find a bundle wrapped in blue paper. When he opened it he counted 23 of the old style large dollar bills. She told him she had been saving it to be used to buy a tombstone for her grave. She recounted that she had sold her last cow to buy a tombstone for her husband Nelson Dollar’s grave. Sadly (cont’d on page 18)

The Rhododendron Garden Club
By Mellanie Tuttle

The Rhododendron Garden Club met at Madelon Houghland’s home on Tuesday, December 9, for our December meeting and luncheon. A brief business meeting preceded the luncheon. The minutes from November were read and approved. Marsha Merrell encouraged members to think of host and nectar plants for pollinators when planting in the spring. Assignments for hostesses, meditations and programs are set for 2015, and it’s going to be a very good year! Come learn about bees, wildflowers, moss, crafting a miniature pot, flower designs, horticulture and so much more! “A Partnership with Pollinators” is next year’s theme.

Martha introduced Jan Wilkinson, past president, to install the new officers for 2015. She mentioned Joyce Kilmer’s poem “Trees” and compared and contrasted the parts of the tree with the duties and responsibilities of the garden club as well as the officers and members. President Martha Wood is like the trunk in that she provides the stability and interacts with all the other parts/members. Marsha Merrell, Vice-President, is like the tap root of the tree, supporting the President and anchoring the group. Secretary Mellanie Tuttle is the fruit (boy is that the truth) and maintains the health of the club by recording events and activities. Dianne Keuhl, Treasurer, is like the sap. Silent, unseen, but without its presence the tree/group can have no life. Members are like the leaves. They indicate the health, beauty, usefulness and breath and must be willing to support the officers and participate. Thanks to Jan for a lovely installation.

The meeting was adjourned, and the delicious part of the day started. Madelon’s miniature blue bottle tree, lily and poinsettia blossoms provided a festive holiday atmosphere. She provided ham and others brought sidedishes and desserts. Three former and seven current members enjoyed the meal and conversation. Someone, unnamed, had to start clearing the table so we would leave!

We wish you a very blessed Christmas season and a Happy New Year. The Garden Club meets the second Tuesday of the month at 10:00 am at the MERF House. Please come join us in 2015. You can be the seedling under the tree—providing new life, a tenderness and hope for the future!

after her death some local women, who had heard stories of Granny hoarding Cherokee gold, stole the money and divided it among themselves.

Granny died on January 25, 1931. According to Floyd Cordell, another request of Granny’s was to have a traditional Indian dance performed with her body when she died. He said her bed was taken up and dancers complied with her wish and danced with the corpse.

An oak casket was constructed by a group of men, including Joseph Cordell, his son Joe and David Keith and paid for by the community. Col. Howard persuaded county officials to pay the $5.00 charge for the services of Emmett’s Hearse. On a cold rainy day the hearse made its way to the Little River Baptist Church, having to be pushed up the hill to the church when it became mired in the mud. After the eulogy by Col. Howard Granny was buried in the church yard next to her husband Nelson Dollar.

After Granny’s funeral the discussion turned to what to do about Buster. Feared by all and hated by some it was determined that the best thing to do was to chloroform him. When they arrived at Granny’s cabin Buster was gnawing at the door with his almost toothless jaw and snarling. Afterwards they held another funeral for Buster and buried him beside a large boulder near Granny’s cabin. (It has been noted in other articles that Buster was buried near Granny’s grave but this is not accurate)

Col. Howard gave a eulogy, including the reading of Tribute to a Dog by George Graham Vest. He spoke to the mountain people about their dreams of eternity and a heaven where all would be harmony, joy and beauty. He said, “What sort of place would this heaven be if it were inhabited by such folks as you and me? What would heaven be without flowers, birds, and dogs?” He closed the service with a prayer that all those gathered might be as faithful as Buster had been.

Due to the efforts of Anne Young, in 1974 a marker was finally placed on Granny’s grave that reads ‘Nancy Callahan “Granny” Dollar 1826-1931 Daughter of the Cherokees’. In 1982 Jeffrey’s Latest 13 by Kathryn Tucker Windham was published about ghost sightings. Included was one titled, Granny Dollar and Her Dog. It told of reported sightings of Granny and Buster near her cabin. These sightings reportedly stopped when the marker was placed on Granny’s grave. Supposedly Buster can still be heard guarding the cabin at night.

I spent several years researching Granny and I would like to give some credit to some of the others who provided me access to their research. Anne Young, Elizabeth Howard and the Dekalb Legend were invaluable resources and many times gave me access to interviews and research I would not have been able to obtain on my own. I hope that I have presented facts to verify or contradict many of the aspects of Granny’s story so that you can have a true picture of this remarkable Indian woman who endured much pain and suffering in her life but persevered and lived well beyond the average age of the era.
