Mentone Community Clean-up

The advent of Spring means it’s time once again for Mentone’s Community Clean-up, an annual event organized by resident Lyle Nicely and supported by community members and businesses since 2002.

On Saturday, March 30, at 9 a.m., everyone is encouraged to meet at the Town Square (next to the Mentone Inn) to pick up litter grabbers and bags. Lyle will match individuals and groups with locations he’s identified that need to be cleaned up. Afterwards, everyone will meet at the Mentone Inn’s pavilion for a barbecue lunch, provided at no cost to volunteers. Feel free to bring a covered dish to share.

Community involvement is at a height with this event, both with the clean-up and the lunch. The Rhododendron Garden Club traditionally picks up between the center of town and the eastern town limits. Boy Scout Troop 106 regularly participates, as well. The Town of Mentone provides a dumpster and electronics recycling. Camp Laney provides bags for collecting litter, and Lowes donates litter grabbers. Cynthia Stinson of the Mentone Inn coordinates the luncheon. The Ladies of St. Joseph’s and other volunteers bring covered dishes. L.C. Moon of the Wildflower Café donates meat, which is barbecued by David Mays. Larry Joe Hall provides musical entertainment. Little River Hardware, Harvest Roots, and Body Maintenance provide drinks. Mentone Market donates chocolate chip cookies, and the stores at the state line donate drinks, ice, plates and cups.

Mark your calendar now to be a part of this important tradition! If you have any questions, please contact Lyle Nicely at 256-996-0169.

February Storms Challenge Local First Responders
by Kelly Leavitt

Tuesday, February 19, brought straight line winds to our area, especially along County Road 89/DeSoto Parkway south of Mentone. The evening marked the beginning of a long week for members of our local fire and police departments. Fire Chief Joseph Lee of the North Lookout Mountain Fire Protection District (NLMFPD), which serves the Mentone area, said they were called out around 10 p.m. on the 19th, and a team worked through the night for 11 hours straight. They began cutting and clearing multiple trees that had fallen onto the road, and others which threatened to fall. Around midnight, they decided it was unsafe to continue working because the winds were so strong. They closed the road off and were soon called to another area on CR-89, near Camp Ponderosa, where a tree had fallen.

With daybreak and calmer winds, they returned to DeSoto Parkway and began checking the outside deck will be heated. Hors d’oeuvres performed. This event is open to all, including current members and anyone interested in learning more about Little River Arts Council. For details, visit littleriverarts council.org.

New Date for Little River Arts Council Gathering

The Little River Arts Council’s Membership Social and Open House was originally scheduled for February 23 but was postponed due to weather. It has been rescheduled for Saturday, March 16 from 5 until 7:30 p.m. Join the board of directors of the Little River Arts Council (LRAC) at DeSoto State Park’s Lodge, where members and others will gather in the historic dining room. The fireplace will be lit and the outside deck will be heated. Hors d’oeuvres will be served, and a cash bar will be available. The full dinner menu and salad bar will be available for purchase.

The LRAC board will briefly review the Council’s activities of 2018 and discuss plans for 2019. Several artists will demonstrate their skills throughout the evening, and live music will be performed. This event is open to all, including current members and anyone interested in learning more about Little River Arts Council. For details, visit littleriverarts council.org.

Rhododendron Festival
Volunteer Opportunities
by Sharon Habin

If you are interested in volunteering for May’s Rhododendron Festival, join us on Wednesday, March 20, at 1 p.m. for a Festival Volunteer meeting at the Wildflower Café. We will meet in the Wildflower Room. Come learn about the many ways you can help us make this year’s Rhododendron Festival a success.

There are many opportunities to volunteer before, during, and after the festival, and for the Miss Rhododendron Pageant. Volunteer opportunities include paperwork, inventory, set up, putting up signs, dropping off items, visiting sponsors, and passing out information at the festival as MAPA booth attendants. These opportunities can take as little as an hour or as much time as you would like to donate.

If you can’t attend but want to volunteer:
• please send an email to rhododendronfestival@gmail.com
• or join ‘Volunteer Mentone AL Festivals’ on Facebook
• or complete the online interest form at mapamentone.com/volunteer-info
• or all of the above!

Those of you who have so graciously volunteered in the past will also be receiving an email the first week of March. For questions email rhododendronfestival@gmail.com or call 256-289-2002 and leave a message.

Messages are checked every few days.

Sharon Habin is the Festival Organizer for the Rhododendron Festival.

Letter from the Editor

s we enter March, we approach the vernal equinox, when spring officially begins on March 20. The circle and cycles of life on Earth are perhaps never more evident than during the spring season. Bulbs sprout from the earth, wildflowers make their brief appearance before tree canopies leaf out and steal their sunlight, animals are born, and the air and soil begin to warm as we prepare to plant seeds which will provide food and/or beauty.

This has been a banner year for daffodils, as they show off their shades of yellow, orange and white.
Little is more wonderful than a humble gift of a freshly picked bunch of daffodils from a friend or neighbor. (Thank you, Harriet!)

These riotous flowers have already begun their retreat back into the earth, where they’ll stay hidden until the solar cycle comes back around. Knowing their fleeting nature helps us appreciate them all the more.

I was able to witness a new kind of birth in February—the birth of my first grandchild, a healthy, alert boy named Tripp. My friends who are grandparents tried their best to tell me about the new kind of love I’d feel, but, honestly, who can truly describe that? It’s too bad the English language doesn’t have a word especially for a grandparent’s love. Seeing my daughter with her own son in her arms really brings forth the awareness of the circle of life!

And, of course, flowers are always a part of birth, as loved ones offer them as celebratory gifts. I was touched by a volunteer at the hospital who gave the new parents a single red rose. I’m pretty sure she did so to be sure that every parent received a flower, even if no one brought them any. Gifts of flowers run deep in our ancestral memory, I do believe.

I cut some daffodils from my daughter’s yard,
she’d have a piece of home in her hospital room.
They feel a lot like captured sunlight to me.

On page 27 of this issue, Anne McLeod has written a book review about hygge
, a Danish concept that suggests the secret to a good life. Making a place for flowers in the home signifies a certain wellness of living. I hope you can find a way to bring beauty from the natural world into your home.
It really does help us feel connected. And that’s a joyous thing…

Happy Spring! —Kelly
Mentone Area Preservation Association

by Mark Hoffman

Hey folks—it’s time to start gearing up for this year’s Rhododendron Festival, which will be held on May 18 and 19. The festival, along with Colorfest which is held each fall, are primary sources of revenue for MAPA, and which enable us to generate funds to disburse to other local organizations in our community. Following is a list of just some of the benefits (some tangible, some intangible) these two festivals provide to the area:

- Allows artists and crafts persons to feature and sell their work.
- Offers local musicians an opportunity to be seen and heard.
- Provides artists and crafts persons to feature and sell their work.
- Provides a family friendly weekend of fun!
- Continues a longstanding Mentone tradition.
- Provides volunteers an opportunity to meet and contribute to the community.
- Provides fund raising opportunities for youth groups and participating non-profits.
- Brings people to Mentone, where they spend money at and with local businesses, such as B&B’s, rental cabins, hotels, restaurants, shops, etc.

We rely heavily on our sponsors to make the festival financially viable. Please consider stepping up and being a sponsor this year. There are four different levels of sponsorship, ranging from $100 to $1,000, and each provides excellent name recognition, goodwill and other sponsor benefits. You can find all of the sponsor benefits on page 13 of this issue.

We look forward to a great weekend, and hope to see all of you there.

Mark Hoffman is president of the Mentone Area Preservation Association.

GA SR-48 Bridge Construction Update

by Kelly Leavitt

You may have noticed that another bridge project has begun on State Route 48 in Cloudland, just east of the Alabama-Georgia state line. The existing bridge over the East Fork of Little River was built in 1937 and is in “structurally deficient” condition, according to the State of Georgia Department of Transportation (GDOT). The project is slated to take 18-24 months, depending on weather.

The existing bridge is a 160’ x 32’ concrete structure with a sufficiency rating of 41. GDOT guidelines state that “a substructure condition… sufficiency rating less than 50 requires the bridge to be replaced.” The replacement bridge will also be a concrete structure and will measure 220’ x 40’. The approaches will consist of two 12’ lanes with 10’ rural shoulders (6.5’ paved).

Before the bridge is replaced, a temporary bridge will be built to the south of the existing bridge. Recently, trees have been cut and clearing has begun for the temporary bridge, which is being constructed on state construction easement. Wright Brothers Construction is building both this bridge and the new bridge spanning the West Fork of Little River on Alabama Highway 117. Chris Brown of Wright Brothers said that the East Fork project is following a practice called “stumping.” They have cut the trees down but will leave the stumps as a protective measure against erosion of the land which could enter Little River. Once the project is complete, a specified variety of plants and trees will be planted in the area.

Mr. Brown referred to the temporary bridge as being like “an erector set.” A company that specializes in renting temporary bridges will deliver the components and a Wright Brothers construction team will erect the pieces. The bridge will be able to hold the weight of “commercial motor vehicles” (18-wheelers).

Once the temporary bridge is complete, construction will begin on the existing bridge, which will be closed to traffic. The “on-site” detour will direct drivers traveling from Mentone to Georgia onto the temporary bridge just south and west of the existing bridge and then along Riverhaven Road to the stop sign at SR-48. Drivers coming into Alabama from Georgia will be directed onto Riverhaven Avenue, just east of the bridge, and then across the bridge to proceed on SR-48. A 25-mile-per-hour speed limit will be enforced through the area.

The temporary bridge is being built because of a known population of Sagittaria Secundifolia, an aquatic plant that is listed as “threatened” by the United States Fish and Wildlife Service. Known as Krafl’s water-plantain, Little River Arrowhead, and Little River Water Plantain, it gained legal status in 1990 as a threatened species because of its rarity. At the time, it was only found in the Little River drainage of northeast Alabama and northwest Georgia. It was placed on the Threatened list and a Recovery Plan suggested the establishment of the plant in three other territories.

Before that plan was implemented, other populations were discovered in the Sipsey Fork of the Black Warrior River in northwest Alabama and in Hatchet Creek in north-central Alabama.

There was once a report of its presence in Town Creek in Fort Payne, but that population is believed to have been destroyed.

I do not know where to begin or what to say, thank you does not begin to cover how we feel. So many people came together in so many ways to make sure our grandson came home safe when he was missing in December. I am at a loss for words. The volunteers who spent hours in 17 degree weather, the police departments, the fire departments, the rescue squad, the K-9 unit, the helicopter, the prayers, the phone calls, the media messages, the people who took him in, fed him, warmed him and took him to safety, so many people coming together for a teenage boy and a family that many did not know. Thank you will never be enough! I hope I haven’t forgotten anyone, I just want everyone to know how thankful we are and how much this means to us. We truly live in the greatest community in the world!! Our love and prayers go with each of you each and every day!

All my bags are packed, I’m ready to go… by Paula Easter

d we have been traveling in our Art and Music classroom this year at Moon Lake…

We started the year off with a virtual visit to New York City, where we looked at all the beautiful architecture, including the Guggenheim Museum. At the museum was one of our favorite artists, Faith Ringgold, and her story quilts.

Technology allowed us to experience her reading her book, Tar Beach, next to her memory quilts in the Guggenheim. And what would a trip to New York be without a visit to the Statue of Liberty, followed by our own artistic renditions of this famous lady?

Kindergarten and first grade students found two of their favorite artists in Massachusetts. Every Moon Lake student knows that the year starts off with Peter Reynolds and his book, The Dot. It’s important that each Moon Lake student learns the lesson from The Dot—that everybody can make their mark and see where it takes them. Two words banned from the art room are “I can’t”; I encourage them to say “I can’t yet.” In Massachusetts, the creativity of Mo Willems is also discovered. Everyone loves the Pigeon but we don’t want him to drive the bus! What a fun and colorful pigeon he is to paint.

Moon Lake students in the upper grades have studied different types of landscapes from exciting new artists. The favorite this year is Karla Gerard, an abstract folk artist from Maine, because of her unusual use of color. She doesn’t use true-to-life color in her landscapes, but rather bright and bold colors. Then the 4th–6th graders discovered the more realistic landscapes from Georgia O’Keefe with her New Mexico desert scenes. The students were amazed by how she envisioned flowers and had fun creating their own versions with pastels.

Ohio offers one of my favorite artists, Charley Harper, so I was excited to share his artwork with the students. He loves to paint and draw animals, especially raccoons and red cardinals. The National Parks love him and display his work in poster form. His animals are not true-to-life shapes, but he focuses on the lines and shapes of the animals. The first graders used oil pastels with a watercolor wash to depict a fawn in his style. The third graders created raccoons with a mash up of Van Gogh’s Starry Starry Night as the background. So much fun!

And we all need some Florida sunshine, so we ventured to see the spectacular coral reef paintings of Florida life by Carolyn Steele. Through the use of YouTube, these mountain students were able to swim among the coral reef and fish that she loves to depict. She believes that her paintings are love letters to the tropics and we agree.

So you can see that we have been on great adventures in the art classroom this year. MERF’s Taste of the Mountain and Art Auction will showcase the artistic skills learned and developed by the students. And join us at 6 p.m. on Thursday, March 7, at Family Art night in the school gym. The creativity of the students with their use of color, cute pigeons at the party, fawns, raccoons and O’Keefe style flowers are amazing. The night will also include student performances, food and fun!

Our traveling this year is not limited to art but we have also discovered great music and music appreciation. The students have had the joy of learning hand bells this year and have performed for senior lunches, the Veteran’s day program, the Christmas program and the upcoming Family art night. The students loved the Huntsville Symphony and can’t wait for “The Wizard of Oz”. Who knows the places we’ll go in our Arts education classes!

MERF’s Taste of the Mountain and Art Auction
American Road Trip: Oh the places we’ll go!

Saturday, April 6, 2019 • Moon Lake Gym • 6 p.m.
The heart of the MERF House is once again full because the house is rich with weekly love, laughter and good food again. Senior lunches started back in February, with great decorations and food from Mentone Community Church and the Rhododendron Garden club. And how amazing that there are more food providers than dates available this spring! What a great problem to have! So thankful for such a giving community. Great lunches will be provided until the end of April by Chick-Fil-A, Wildflower Café, Alpine Camp, Camp Laney, As Close as Family services, Camp Skyline, the Garden Club, St. Joseph’s Episcopal Church, the Boy Scouts, Hazel Bickerstaff, and Dee Dee Dunkerley. Did you hear the Moon Lake 4th and 5th graders talking about their trip to the Young People’s concert by the Huntsville Symphony on February 1? With Ms. Paula’s preparation, their theatre etiquette was amazing and they learned all about the instruments and parts of the orchestra. A 4th grader on her first exposure to an orchestra felt like the musicians were almost mechanical in their precision. The harp was her favorite instrument to watch and to hear. A student even recognized a tune played from an old movie. MERF and Moon Lake are very thankful for being able to provide several exposures to professional performances. Funding for Field Trips to professional performances is made possible by a grant from the Farley Moody Galbraith fund of the Community Foundation of Northeast Alabama. And a field trip grant awarded by the Alabama State Council on the Arts which is made possible through funding from an annual appropriation from the Alabama State Legislature and the National Endowment for the Arts. These grants will also provide a trip on March 20th to the Alliance Theater’s production of “The Wizard of Oz”. This past Friday, hearing all the learning and fun happening in MS Paula’s art/ music class, I sneaked in for a peek on the work being prepared for the Family Art night and the MERF Art Auction. The first graders were creating wonderful pictures of Mo Willem’s pigeon from Don’t Let the Pigeon Drive the Bus and colorful animals in the woods. And what a treat to hear the kindergartners sing and dance to their favorite The Dot Song. Hope you are able to catch their performance at Family Art night and to see all the great artwork the students have been doing this year. The Art Auction committee picked some fantastic pieces for this year’s Taste of the Mountain and Art Auction on April 6. Tickets are available until sold out for $35 a ticket or $250 for a table of eight from a MERF board member or Little River Hardware. There is a creative and fun group spearheading the theme this year of “American Road Trip: Oh the places we’ll go!”, with amazing centerpieces and décor. Follow MERF’s Facebook page @merfhouse and Instagram @leave_me_in_mentone to see the artwork that will be up for auction and a list of the participating food who coming. As you’ll read in Paula Easter’s article, the Moon Lake students are studying artists across America and are recreating their versions for the auction. “Oh the places we’ll go” also reflects the MERF programs and the dreams we have to continue strengthening our community, discovering human lighthouses, and meeting needs from ages 1 to 101! Hope to see you there!

Large dog kennel area attached to house. Not too much land, not too little. $274,900. (1109864)

ALMOST LIKE HAVING YOUR CAKE AND EATING IT, TOO! Two cabins, each very different from the other, but when you combine the two, you get a whole lot of possibilities! Rustic garage cabin on the left; a bit more “cottage-y” cabin on the right. This little “compound” could be the perfect gathering place for friends, family, groups, what-have-you! Sorta quirky (but nice) things like the big claw-foot soaking tub in right-hand garage area; or how about the queen-size custom-made hanging bed for the left-hand garage area? Both cabins, one price, only $258,500. (1112773)

FUNKY, QUIRKY, CLASSIC MENTONE summer home, nestled in the shelter & privacy of a privet hedge. Your own “Secret Garden” home, complete w/ screened sleeping porch, interesting nooks & crannies; library nook; 2 large BRs; 2 BAs (one has a claw foot tub); open kitchen/living area; studio or 3rd bedroom on main level; & laundry room w/great storage. All wood interior. Yes, there’s work to be done, but this is a place in the heart of Mentone to put your heart into. $99,000. (1100721)

THREE FEATHERS RANCH was the name given this beautiful, 34-acre (+) Mentone property featuring a 3BR/2BA house with 2 bonus rooms and a bath in finished basement! Land is approx ½ woods & ½ pasture, fenced & cross-fenced; 2 small ponds; tractor shed; picturesque ranch entry way with gently-curving driveway leading to house. Satisfying views of pond & pasture from house’s front porch. Located about halfway between Mentone and Alpine area near DeSoto State Park. This is definitely something to get excited about! Not many properties like this come on the market at Mentone. Priced at $299,900. (1107782)

LOTS AND LAND

DE SOTO FALLS AREA LAKEFRONT LOT with approx. 94’ frontage on the prime part of W Fork Little River, the truly navigable part where you can canoe, kayak or pontoon all the way to Mentone! So much natural beauty, so rarely available. $156,000 (355152)

30 ACRES (+) IN MENTONE of mostly hardwood forest, some pastureland. Slight slope to offer a great elevation for future cabins, a farm, hunting cabin or whatever your Mentone dream dictates. $105,000 ($3.50 per acre)

OWNER FINANCING AVAILABLE! 2 WOODED ACRES with a tiny rustic one-room camping cabin (no plumbing, water or septic installed). Sort of a getaway or place to stay until you’re ready to build your mountain home. Restricted. $39,700 (1034503)

SOUTH COOL STREET browfront property w/beautiful old stone chimney, part of the foundation, plus a small garage. New survey. An original Mentone summer home once stood here; owned by the same family since early 1920s. Approx. 0.45 acre lot in an area where properties are seldom available. Build your own memories! $125,000 (1070474)

EASTERN LOOKOUT MTN’S EDGE, expansive views, gorgeous sunrises. 1-acre lot w/ approx. 120’ brow frontage; paved road; public water/DVR already in place. Just right for your mountain home or getaway. THINK SPRING!
Mentone Arts & Cultural Center Update
The Undying Spirit of Winnie Scott by Randy Grider

On a late January Sunday afternoon, I found myself at a memorial service for a woman I had never personally met. I had heard of Winnie Scott over the years, but I was not fortunate to have her as a teacher or to see one of her students’ performances. Still, I felt somewhat of an obligation to find out more about the woman whose family asked that in lieu of flowers, contributions in her memory be made to the Mentone Arts & Cultural Center (MACC). I left the DeKalb Theatre in Fort Payne following “The Life and Times of Winifred Larmore Scott” memorial service feeling blessed that I had gone.

I know many of you knew Winnie Scott, but I have included a few highlights from her obituary, which I edited for space:

Winnie was born December 20, 1934, on the Larmore family farm, off Highway 11 near Hammondville. She earned her GED at the age of 16 and enrolled that same year at the Alabama State College for Women (now known as the University of Montevallo). After two years, she matriculated to the University of Alabama, where she completed both undergraduate and master’s degrees. While in Tuscaloosa, she studied acting and performance with the legendary professor of drama, Marian Gallaway. Her performance during the 1953-54 season, in the role of Abigail Williams in The Crucible, was of particular note for her acting in local productions of plays as diverse and engaging as Tobacco Road, My Three Angels, and Steel Magnolias. She also worked behind the scenes on several other productions, including directing her FPHS colleague Katie Gillis in a stellar version of the Emily Dickinson bio-drama, The Belle of Amherst. Moreover, the “Senior Class Plays” that she directed (most often in tandem with her FPHS colleagues Joanna Titshaw Bazemore and Joanne Durham) are still talked about, cherished, and recollected. These included Shenandoah, Oklahoma, You’re A Good Man, Charlie Brown, and Little Mary Sunshine. In the late 1970s, she helped to create a local Fort Payne youth choir, “The Star-Spangled Singers,” comprised of some of the city’s most musically talented teenagers. Under her leadership and inspiration, the group performed at many venues, including before the Alabama State Legislature in the State Capitol Building and on the main stage of Bicentennial Mall in Philadelphia on July 4, 1976, as part of our nation’s bicentennial celebration. An impressive body of work, indeed! But what struck me and moved me the most were the stories from family, friends and former students. I laughed a great deal and shed a couple of tears. I can’t do these stories justice, but a sampling included:

• Having a group of FPHS boys move a piano from her home to the Opera House despite obstacles like its sheer size and weight, hills, grass … (Winne needed a piano at the Opera House and nothing was going to stop her from getting it there);
• Chasing intruding bears with a skillet and hot bacon grease while camping with family;
• Moving a student into her recently-vacated son’s room so he could finish school despite his family moving to another state. “You can stay in Chuck’s room,” Winnie told the student who was depressed that he wasn’t going to be able to finish the year with his FPHS classmates. The fact that Winnie made her decision on the spur of the moment without consulting his parents first was not problem in her mind. It was a solution. The student stayed in Chuck’s room and finished at FPHS.

Harriet Turner of the Lookout Mountain Knitters teaches young Ian DePaul the basics of knitting. The knitters meet at Moon Lake Community Library every Tuesday at 3 p.m. Everyone is welcome.

The February 12th meeting of Rhododendron Garden Club (RGC) was held in the MERF House at 10 o’clock. Hostess Sue Schwarz made a delicious overnight apple coffee cake for us to enjoy, and Marsha Merrell read the meditation, a poem called “Creator’s Hand.”

President Marsha Merrell called the meeting to order. During roll call, members brought in samples of evergreen that were growing in their yard, such as Cryptomeria, Boxwoods and Leyland Cypress, along with Camelia and Lenten Rose. Mellanie Tuttle shared some of her forced pear, peach, and apple stems with us to plant in our own yards.

Members were also asked to name ways to protect plants from frost. Wrapping plants in burlap is a good idea, along with mulching with leaves and pine straw. You can also spray plants with water before a freeze, so a protective barrier forms around the plant, or you can fill water jugs with water, let them soak up the heat of the sun, cover them up and place them near the plants at night. The warmth that emits from the jugs will help protect plants from the cold. Also, since water is a natural insulator, it is always a good idea to keep your plants on a regular watering schedule in dry, cold weather to keep them protected from freezing temperatures.

The Master Gardeners will be having their annual plant sale on Saturday, April 13, starting at 7 a.m. On April 20, the Federation plant sale will be held at the Henagar Community Center. These plant sales offer a wide selection of locally grown flowers and plants and are open to the public.

Mellanie Tuttle reported the program with Moon Lake Elementary students continued as they planted zinnias, sunflowers and marigold in pots and placed them in the greenhouse to grow. They talked about forcing pear, apple and peach trees into bloom. Each student took a stem home to try the forcing experiment. The art project consisted of using finger and thumb prints to paint blossoms on a tree.

After business was completed, member Dianne Kuehl gave her presentation on Plant Diversity in Alabama. Our state is rich not only in plant diversity, but also has more biological and geological diversity than most anywhere else in North America, and its biodiversity is still growing. New plant species are still being discovered by botanists. In the last decade, nearly 150 new plant species have been discovered and named. Georgia botanist Jim Allison explored the Cahaba River in the 1990s and considers it “a botanical lost world.” During his excursions, he discovered several plants and flowers that were thought to be extinct or have never been known to science. Some were so rare, they were placed on the Endangered Species List. Some plants are found only in Alabama, including the Canebrake Pitcher Plant, the Cahaba Prairie Clover and the Alabama Gladecress.

Why is plant diversity so important? Plants provide the entire ecosystem with services that support life. Everything we eat comes from plant materials, or are derived from plants and converted into meats, milk and eggs. They provide us with the oxygen we breath. They are made into medicines that soothe our aches and have the potential to cure cancer. Appreciating plants and caring for them, whether they be the flowers we grow in our garden, or trees that grow in our yard, is an important first step into preserving the abundant biodiversity that we find in Alabama.

The March meeting will be held at the MERF House on Tuesday, March 12 at 10 a.m. Mellanie Tuttle will lead us in a program on flower design, so we’ll all be eager to submit a design in September’s flower show during the DeKalb County Fair!

Moon Lake Library has become a vibrant community center, thanks to our patrons and those who attend events, come for the writer’s group, the book club, and the knitting circle, and to browse our sale books. Over the course of 11 “open” days in February, 86 books and 70 DVDs were checked out. We issued library cards to 10 new patrons. We have deleted 85 books from our stacks and added 45 that are fresh and relevant to our community’s interests.

The library is open on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 3 until 5 p.m. and on Saturdays from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m. Please note! Beginning on March 12, our hours on Tuesdays and Thursdays will be extended to 6 p.m. Check our Facebook page or web site (moonlakelibrary.org) for updates or to join our email list. The library is located at 4607 AL Hwy. 117 in Mentone. See you at the library!

Kelly Leavitt is Mentone’s community librarian.

Dot Mandala Rock Painting
Saturday, March 30
10:30am
Painting dot mandalas on rocks is a very relaxing activity that produces a beautiful piece of art at the same time. Kerry Breithaupt has offered to donate smooth river rocks and she’ll teach us how to paint on them using tools that provide perfect circles. All supplies will be provided. There is no charge for this workshop, but a donation to the library will be appreciated.

Moon Lake Book Club
3/23
Join fellow book lovers on for a discussion of "The Alice Network," a best-selling historical novel by Kate Quinn. The book club will meet on Saturday, March 23, at 10:30 a.m. at Moon Lake Community Library in Mentone (where the book is available for check-out). Everyone is welcome to join the discussion. Organic coffee and hot tea will be served.

Community Game Nights
Friday, March 8 & 22 @ 6pm
Our Community Game Nights in February have continued to be so popular that folks have asked for two more evenings to be scheduled in March. So! Join us on March 8 and/or March 22 at 6 p.m. for a good ‘ol family-friendly time. We’ll share in a finger-food pot-luck. We have plenty of board games, but you’re welcome to bring your own!

AUTHOR TALK:
Edwene Gaines
Monday, March 18 @ 6:30pm
Rev. Edwene Gaines is the author of "The Four Spiritual Laws of Prosperity: A Simple Guide to Unlimited Abundance and I Choose Forgiveness." A resident of Valley Head, Edwene has extensively traveled the world as a presenter of workshops and seminars. She will discuss her books as well as her process as an author. Light refreshments will be served, as well as coffee and hot tea. This event is free of charge.

The Poetry of Wendell Berry
Saturday, March 16 @ 10:30am
Join us on Saturday, March 16, at 10:30 a.m., for a casual poetry reading of the works of Wendell Berry. Bring your favorite poem or essay to read. If you’re not familiar with Wendell Berry or his poetry, feel free to come anyway to enjoy the reading.

It’s College Scholarship Time! by Kat Griffith

Now is the time to get your motor running if you are planning on revving up for post-high school education this fall. St. Joseph’s is grateful to have the opportunity, by way of its Vann-McCary Scholarship Fund, to offer generous college scholarships. Our scholarships are available to any student coming out of high school, as well as anyone up to 99 years of age, living in the Mentone area. If you need more information, our telephone number at St. Joseph’s is 256-634-4476 and our email is stjom@centurytel.net. You can also find scholarship information on our website at stjom.dioala.org.

Another remarkable aspect of this scholarship is that it is available for up to four years, providing the student fulfills all the very manageable guidelines.

Packets are available at the St. Joseph’s on-the-Mountain Episcopal Church office, at the corner of Highway 117 and Scenic Highway, in Mentone, as well as the school counselor’s office at Valley Head High School. If you need more information, our telephone number at St. Joseph’s is 256-634-4476 and our email is stjom@centurytel.net. You can also find scholarship information on our website at stjom.dioala.org.

Scholarship applications must be completed and returned with proof of college acceptance to St. Joseph’s on-the-Mountain Episcopal Church, P.O. Box 161, Mentone, AL 35984, no later than May 1, 2019. So, put your pedal to the metal and get busy as this is a great opportunity to help finance your education.
St. Joseph’s on-the-Mountain Welcomes All to Annual St. Patrick’s Day Dinner

by Joan Byrum

What’s for Sunday dinner at your house on March 17? A traditional Irish dinner will be cooked by the Episcopal Church Women (ECW) and served in the St. Joseph’s on-the-Mountain church parish hall from noon until 2 p.m. Corned beef and cabbage, potatoes, carrots and buttered cornbread are on the menu, as well as a drink and dessert. Tickets are $10 for adults and $5 for children. Purchase your tickets from any ECW member, the church office or the Mentone Market.

Proceeds from ticket sales will support the Food Bank Outreach Ministry at St. Joseph’s, which helps feed members of our community who are in need. The program serves approximately 50 families per week. ECW’s growing Children’s BackPack Program provides a “pack” of food on Fridays to support each child’s nutritional needs during the weekend.

“St. Joseph’s on-the-Mountain has made feeding the hungry in our community an outreach focus for years,” said Marsha Cox Merrell, ECW St. Pat’s Day Dinner chairwoman. “We hope Mentone residents and visitors alike will help us in this endeavor by attending our dinner and bringing one non-perishable food item for the food bank as well. Proceeds from the dinner will help us provide for our neighbors in need.”

For information about the dinner or ECW’s programs, contact Marsha Merrell, Joan Byrum or the church office at 256-634-4476.

Mentone. I love this town. My heart swells when I come and breaks when I have to leave. Darned real world, and real job. Mentone is surely the center of sanity, if not the center of the actual universe.

Some part of my family’s been here since the late 1800s. Until recently, I’d only lived in Mentone from birth through second grade (1977, thank you) when my immediate family moved to the big city, Fort Payne. Maybe as a child time moves more slowly, or maybe without cable TV, internet, or decent home insulation, the winters back then made the whole year seem eternal. So seven years there felt like 27, and I call Mentone my home the whole year seem eternal. So seven years the mother would know what kind of oak; I’m lucky to over. Listen to a squirrel scurry up an oak tree. My of my universe. Why it’s special or memorable or maybe without cable TV, internet, or decent is to 27, and I call Mentone my home is to 27, and I call Mentone my home sanity, if not the center of the actual universe. The Magic Behind the Moon Lake Mop Closet .............

Then, two years ago, my family bought of leaves burning. The air is clean. of rock —every for travelers in route to Atlanta. A flashing light at the of leaves burning. The air is clean. of rock —every made me toasty. My family, of leaves burning. The air is clean. of rock —every kind of oak; I’m lucky to

But Mentone’s as close to heaven as you can get in Alabama, both mentally and altitudinally. Stomp the old Mentone home place and once again, there felt like 27, and I call Mentone my home is to 27, and I call Mentone my home ideas, if not the center of the actual universe. The Magic Behind the Moon Lake Mop Closet .............

Then, two years ago, my family bought of leaves burning. The air is clean. of rock —every made me toasty. My family, of leaves burning. The air is clean. of rock —every

Sharon Deviet
2nd grade, Moon Lake School

Two years ago, I took my husband, Chris Russell, inside Moon Lake School for the first time. We arrived in Mentone on a Friday, a little earlier than normal. School was just out but a few kids and teachers remained. The teachers let me look around to reminisce and the first place I took my husband was to the school’s first library, created toward the end of my first-grade year. This was still a time when the fifth and sixth grades shared one teacher, Mr. Bell. My brother was in Mr. Bell’s class. Though multiple grades were still sharing classrooms, the new Title One reading program was pushing ever harder to grow good readers. The school leaders carved out space for a dedicated Title One reading classroom by cutting another classroom in half—putting a wall right down the middle. Title One funds were big news to small schools. Moon Lake had “U.S.S.R.” just about every day—which was a Cold War funny name for “Uninterrupted Sustained Silent Reading.” Every student and every teacher pulled out a book and just read quietly for thirty uninterrupted minutes, or sometimes more. She’d shut it all down and read! And everyone seemed to love it.

Then in 1977, someone at the school got another big idea. Moon Lake needed a library. I was little and just reading but I loved books and the very idea of having a school library made me toasty. My family, both sides, were book lovers. One grandmother (Granny Annie Young) worked for the Fort Payne public library for years, but that was so very far away. A library at the school would be amazing.

But there was no room for a library and no money to build one. Back then, there still wasn’t a gym. There was no structured P.E. class—the teachers just turned everyone loose for “recess” to go play outside unsupervised. Delicious, fun times! Who needed a gym anyway, when you’d rather have freedom for an hour? But a library, now that I could use.

The brave idea was to start the library small—so small they would put the new library inside a closet… inside the mop closet actually, and inside the tiny Title One reading room. The mop closet had no windows. It barely had a light bulb dangling on a wire, to my memory. And no one was removing the bucket and mops. They were just adding a bookcase. One bookcase.

As a six-year-old, it seemed enormous—as tall as I was, and as wide as I could reach. I think it held three shelves in total, each shelf divided in half. So, there was half a shelf for first grade books and the other half for second grade books. Third and fourth shared. Fifth and sixth shared. And that’s how they were labelled, so you could find your level of reading. But there were no restrictions—choose whatever you’re up for reading. All the spare books teachers could rost were put in the “library.” The shelves were full. Looking back, there were maybe 75 books to start, but it was heaven compared to having no library before.

To get a book, you just asked permission from your teacher when you weren’t busy. And they always said yes. You could come whenever—whenever you finished your last book or whenever you decided you just didn’t like the last book. You walked on your own, free as a bird, to the Title One room—where the school office is now. You slipped quietly into the classroom, so as not to disturb others practicing reading and who didn’t stop on account of you. You let yourself into the mop closet, and you flipped on the light. You straddled the big metal rolling mop bucket, often still with dirty water and wet mop inside, to peer over all those books and make an important selection. Books of all kinds. There were no rules here. It’s books. We LOVE books. New ideas! Pictures! The future! The past! Other places and things to learn! Make your choice, take it back to class with you and enjoy...read and enjoy. Until you come again for another wonderful book. When’s the next U.S.S.R. time? Life was simple.

Before third grade, we moved to town. Our rental of the old family house in Mentone was no longer available, such as it had been. Strip miners’ dynamite blasts had jarred the wells out of commission, and we’d been without usable plumbing nearly two years. My parents were tired of hauling water for washing and flushing and tired of driving to a laundromat and flushing and tired of driving to a laundromat to get books in the summer—when they had all the time in the world to read? It was one thing for Moon Lake to not be able to let you into the mop closet during the summer, but this school had a whole big library annex building just at the end of the third-grade hall.

In the first days, when my bus got there very early, I went down to check the library doors—still locked up, even a week into the school year. What was up? The teacher said it took about two weeks for the library to open. I was shocked that it wasn’t open during in the summer. Wouldn’t they open it for kids to get books in the summer—when they had all the time in the world to read? It was one thing for Moon Lake to not be able to let you into the mop closet during the summer, but this school had a whole big library annex building just at the end of the third-grade hall.

In the first days, when my bus got there very early, I went down to check the library doors—still locked up, even a week into the school year. What was up? The teacher said it took about two weeks for the library to open. I was shocked that it wasn’t open during in the summer. Wouldn’t they open it for kids to get books in the summer—when they had all the time in the world to read? It was one thing for Moon Lake to not be able to let you into the mop closet during the summer, but this school had a whole big library annex building just at the end of the third-grade hall.

The library entrance had big double doors with round windows up high, like ship portholes. When I got to school early, I’d go down and look. If I stood on my tiptoes I could barely see inside—a gigantic open room with 10 or 12 tables and the entire outer wall wrapped in bookshelves, built child-height. Their shelves were all about as tall as the one in the mop closet library back at Moon Lake, but these stretched for what seemed miles around that huge room, and all full. Books, books, books. I couldn’t wait.

In my head, I started the two-week countdown until library opening day. With my bus getting to school early, I figured I could go sit and read every single morning. I loved my new school!

I asked my sweet new teacher, Mrs. Long, when I could go. She wore prettier shoes than the country teachers—but then she didn’t have to go rescue kids from mud puddles or the forbidden swamp area at recess, like country teachers. Or go do maintenance on the school furnace outside like Mr. Brown did one week. She wore pretty sandals with different colored straps we called her “disco shoes.”

She seemed surprised by my question. Go to the library alone? Students couldn’t go alone; the class went as a group, all together. I thought that must be just for the first visit, to get kids used to where it was and how it all worked. My grandmother was a librarian, but you couldn’t expect every child to understand the library right off the bat.

I asked about the following trips. No, she said, every trip to the library had to be as a class, together. Really? I couldn’t fathom why all of us had to go. That made no sense. Well, I would just have to get lots of books on each visit to tide me over until the next trip. How often could we all go?

Mrs. Long’s answers were so baffling; once every two weeks. Two weeks? You’ve got to be kidding. It’s just at the end of the hall—it’s right down there! It’s closer than the gym, closer than the lunchroom. It may have been closer than the bathrooms. Two weeks between visits! I would have to get five or 10 books at a time to get through two weeks. This was going to take some serious planning on my part.

Then the next letdown from Mrs. Long: No, each

Little River Arts Council News

Promoting the Artist by Rhea Pirch

The Little River Arts Council board of directors postponed our annual open house and social, originally scheduled for February 23, due to a forecast of potentially dangerous storms that evening. The new date for the event will be published as soon as it is determined.

A large part of the Arts Council’s mission has to do with supporting not only community arts projects and activities, but the artists themselves, of all genres. We see, yearly, an influx of artists who move to the Mentone area. However, we’re unsure of how many are aware of how we can promote them and their work through a membership in the Little River Arts Council.

Each summer, we offer member artists the opportunity to set up, without charge, their art for sale at any of our Summer Music Series concerts, held one Saturday a month from June to September. Vendor booths at our yearly Creative Spirit Market, a two-day event held on Veteran’s Day weekend at DeSoto State Park, are also free of charge for our members.

Last summer, we introduced the concept of “pop-up” events, where member artists set up their own gallery of work at the Mentone Inn Pavilion during Farmer’s Market hours, Saturday from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. We are also open to assisting in setting up other pop-up events at various venues in Mentone, at various times, whether it be an acoustic concert in the park, a poetry reading on the square, or any other inventive pop-up ideas the artist may have.

If you enjoy teaching, we welcome the opportunity to offer a class in your form of art. We provide a stipend to member artists to hold their class and allow them to keep whatever class fees are collected.

As an additional way to support local member artists, we are eager to create the LRAC Artist Registry on our web site, to provide online exposure for each artist with their own page and links directly to their own website. This valuable online resource will provide artists who have little or no exposure on the internet with a way to be seen and contacted.

We are also willing to promote activities for member artists through our website, weekly e-mails and our Facebook page. We’ll even help to hang flyers around town!

Membership in the Little River Arts Council is open to everyone. You don’t have to be an artist to join. Dues are payable annually, and membership is available at a variety of levels: Individual $25, Family $40, Supporter $100+ and Patron $500+. Click on the membership page on our website: littleriverartscouncil.org. We thank you for your support!

Rhea Pirch is the treasurer for the Little River Arts Council.

Two hundred years ago, the Alabama State Seal was adopted. It features the state’s 130,000 miles of lakes, rivers, and streams. Bodies of water connect communities and clean water is essential to each of our lives. The State Seal highlights how important this precious natural resource is to the citizens of Alabama.

Next time you look at the Great Seal of Alabama, notice where Little River is located in the northeastern corner of the state. It is in its own basin, with no headwater source other than springs fed by the rain, but her waters flow all the way down to the Gulf of Mexico, through Mobile Bay.

The Little River Waterkeeper was formed in 2012. The job of the Waterkeeper is to monitor the river’s quality and provide a point of contact for the public on issues related to the Little River. Staff and volunteers work on your behalf to keep Little River one of Alabama’s favorite spots.

Here are updates on some of our current projects:

- Summer Water Quality Monitoring Program—We are always looking for talented volunteers to take water samples! First, we train you to test the water. Then, once a week, volunteers take water samples from popular swimming sites on Little River. The results are posted via a great website and app called SwimGuide, to notify users whether or not their favorite spot is safe to swim in. Little River needs special attention. If you are interested in learning more about our mission to protect Little River and her tributaries. Our next stakeholder meeting will be held on Thursday, March 28, at the Green Leaf Grill in Mentone.

Little River is...well little, but plays a very big role, as it provides recreation for thousands of children each summer. Visitors drive from miles around for waterfall hikes, full moon kayaking adventures and to soak in the cool waters atop this peaceful plateau mountain. Locals have Little River stories that date back generations. Let us be stewards of her, for all our sakes.

To report pollution, call 256-516-2877. Donations can be mailed to Little River Waterkeeper, 215 Grand Ave. SW Ste. A, Fort Payne, AL 35967.

Bill Shugart is the Little River Waterkeeper.

Banjo Player Jim Conner to Perform in Mentone

Jim Conner, a Bluegrass Hall of Fame banjo player and songwriter, who is best known for his tune “Grandma’s Feather Bed,” made popular by John Denver and others, will perform in Mentone on March 16.

Jim’s grandmother, Florence Setzer, had a major influence on his life and music. From the 1920s through the 1970s, she owned and ran Setzer’s Boarding House, located in the Woodlawn area of Birmingham. Many musicians frequented the boarding house at the time. Jim visited often and enjoyed listening to his grandmother’s nightly stories and traditional songs. Her songs were not the current ones on the radio; they were the ones that had been passed from generation to generation. In 1964, at the Great Southern Folk Music Jamboree at the Alabama State Fair, Granny Florence—at age 86—brought the house down as she sang her ballads of Appalachia, accompanied by grandson Jim Conner on banjo and guitar.

Jim was a member of the Kingston Trio from 1968 until 1973. Earlier, he had formed a duo with Richard Lockmiller, called R & J. They toured Europe and England with success and recorded an album while in London. They also opened Barbra Streisand’s original New York nightclub show.

During this time on the road, Jim wrote many letters to family and friends. Years later, while cleaning out his banjo case, he found a letter which recalled the happy times spent with his eight cousins at Granny’s Boarding House. In the letter, he mentioned the feather bed they all slept on. This memory inspired Jim to write the song, “Grandma’s Feather Bed,” which became one of John Denver’s greatest worldwide hits at the peak of his career in the 1970s.

Jim has played harmonica for Claire Lynch and for Linda Ronstadt on “Love Is A Rose” and has appeared in specials with Dolly Parton, The Wayfarers, Judy Collins, and John Denver, plus dozens more Nashville and Hollywood stars. He has received multiple gold and platinum records for his songs and work with most of the above artists. In 2018, Jim was inducted into the Alabama Bluegrass Hall of Fame.

Jim attended Harvard College, West Alabama University, and Birmingham-Southern College. He and his wife, Dr. Cynthia Connor, who is an associate professor at Jacksonville State University, love Mentone. In 1988, they were married at St Joseph’s Episcopal Church and their reception followed at the Mentone Springs Hotel. Jim expresses the soul, heart, and voice of our mountain. Don’t miss this special event at the Mentone Arts & Cultural Center’s temporary home at 5951 AL Hwy. 117 in Mentone on Saturday, March 16, 2019, from 6–8 p.m. Admission is $10 (donation). For further information, call 256-674-3366.

University of Alabama Quilt
Being Raffled
by Pat Johnson

Menlo Housing Authority is sponsoring a Quilt Raffle for a large (88”x98”) red and gray quilt featuring fabric with a University of Alabama motif. Proceeds will fund the Reading Buddies Program and the Veteran Marker Project.

The drawing will be held on Saturday, March 16, at Menlo’s Annual Spring Quilt Show, which is held at the Lawrence Center, 71 Edison Circle, Menlo, GA.

You do not need to be present to win. Tickets are $1 each and are available at the following area locations:
- Menlo: Menlo City Hall, Menlo Restaurant, Design Cuts
- Mentone: Little River Hardware, Helena’s Deli
- Summerville: Chattooga County Commissioner’s Office, T’s Salon
- Ft. Payne: Woodmen of the World Office

All proceeds from the raffle will go to support the Reading Buddies Program and the Veteran Marker Project.

Menlo Notes by Diane Smith Mealer

In my neighborhood, the trees are leafing, the ornamental pears are in bloom, daffodils, crocus, and hyacinths are showing their spring dressings. My yellow bell shrubs are in full color and the peach trees are showing tiny blooms. It seems Mother Nature has lulled the South into a false spring. But I believe “ole man winter” is not through with his seasonal fling and we will be in for a big surprise. I personally, do not like the cold. The sight of a snow-covered mountain or an ice-covered pond is worthy of its beauty, but give me tropical temps and days filled with sunshine. My DNA is not tempered for anything less. But, spring is on its way and around the corner. It seems that in a blink of an eye, time flies, and there we are. Hope blooms eternal, new life for both human and nature…we can’t wait to pack away the coats and flannel pj’s, cut off the electric blankets, open the doors and windows, and trade boots for sandals, sweaters for sleeveless, and long pants for shorts. Life is abundant. The Groundhog

The room was huge. I went down the wall toward What is this place? You're kidding. Mrs. Long's class got the first library visit. We all I was the only one scouting the books. Alex was (continued from page 15)

Finally, those double doors swung in wide and I could see! Oh, it was beautiful. Books, books. I rushed to the closest shelf to start looking, knowing we got just 40 minutes. This library alphabetized all the books by subjects. “Animal” books were grouped on the near shelf. “Cooking” books were a little ways down. My first quick survey was unsettling. I’d never be able to choose one book. The room was huge. I went down the wall toward the Es and the Fs.

Quiet. Shhhhh, shhh. We can’t go in until we’re all quiet, boys and girls. Finally, those double doors swung in wide and I could see! Oh, it was beautiful. Books, books. I rushed to the closest shelf to start looking, knowing we got just 40 minutes. This library alphabetized all the books by subjects. “Animal” books were grouped on the near shelf. “Cooking” books were a little ways down. My first quick survey was unsettling. I’d never be able to choose one book. The room was huge. I went down the wall toward the Es and the Fs. Pst! Pst! I heard a noise and turned to look. All the other kids had come to this same school last year and the year before, and kindergarden before that (a citified invention, I thought, as Moon Lake didn’t do kindergarten or Head Start) and were sitting still and quiet as mice in the little chairs around the little tables in the middle of the room. I was the only one scouting the books. Alex was signaling me to get with the program. I realized my faux pas. I was a rube from the boonies. Everyone was looking at me, even sweet Mrs. Long. Silly little country girl, they must all think, doesn’t know how a library works.

I was stunned at what happened next! They turned out the lights and ran a movie projector! Our library time was eaten up by a whirring film of puppets and nonsense! Later, I quizzed my new classmates whether on return visits we would get the full 40 minutes to look at books. They looked at me puzzled—no, there was always a movie or filmstrip to start.

We lined up, got shushed again, and marched single file back to the classroom. I’d gotten one book, a mystery, from an entire full “M” bookshelf of nothing but mysteries—something thick, for two whole weeks. Then I started doing the math. School lasted about nine months. If I got two visits to the library per month, that was 18. Eighteen if I didn’t ever get sick on a library day. Eighteen if the librarian didn’t get sick on my library day. Eighteen if it didn’t snow on any of my library days. Eighteen books. Tops. I thought of the mop closet, open all day, every day. Read as many as you want to read. Read first-grade books or sixth-grade books. Come again tomorrow. Change your mind and choose again. The only limit was me and what effort I was willing to put in. Ahh, Moon Lake School. Ahh, Mentone and teensy towns. Places supposedly with fewer “resources.”

Touring what remains of the mop closet at Moon Lake Elementary 40 years later, I open the door and looked in. My husband looks in. The closet is still there, even smaller than I remembered. Today it’s crammed full of duct work for heating and air. (Air conditioning at Moon Lake?) Not a mop or a book inside.

But almost 20 years ago, a joint effort between DeSoto County Schools and local community residents culminated in the construction of a beautiful brick school/community library connected off the north side, past where the monkey bars (made of iron plumbing pipes) used to be. It’s connected to the school by covered walkways. The parking lot side is by the highway, overlooking those transfer trucks headed for the narrow bridge and travelers racing through Mentone to catch planes in Atlanta. During school hours, the library is just for the school kids. Afternoons, evenings and weekends, it’s open to everyone…and all…summer…long. There are no check-out limits.
Recipes to Enjoy

Irish Soda Bread
submitted by Eleanor Teverino
4 cups flour
3/4-cup sugar
3 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. baking soda
1 tsp. salt
1/2-cup butter
2 cups seedless raisins
2 Tbs caraway seeds (optional)
2 cups buttermilk
Pre-heat oven to 325°. Mix the dry ingredients in a bowl and cut in the butter until mixture is crumbly. Stir in the raisins and caraway seed, then the buttermilk.

Place in 2 well-greased 9x5” loaf pans. Bake at 325 for 1 hour. Slice thinly and spread with cream cheese, if desired.

Italian Potato Soup
submitted by Annette Stone
1-1/2 cups spicy sausage links (can use chicken sausage)
2 medium potatoes, cut in half lengthwise
1/2-pound bacon, cooked and crumbled
3/4-cup onions, diced
1-1/4 tsp garlic, minced
2 cups kale leaves, cut in half, then sliced
2 Tbsp chicken base
4 cups water
1/3-cup heavy whipping cream
Preheat oven to 350°. Place sausage links onto a sheet pan and bake for 25 mins. or until done. Cut into half lengthwise, then cut at an angle into 1/2-inch slices.

Place onions and bacon in large saucepan and cook over medium heat until onions are almost clear. Add garlic and cook and additional 1 minute.

Add chicken base, water and potatoes. Simmer 15 minutes. Add sausage, kale and cream. Simmer 4 minutes. Stir and serve with warm bread.

Apple Clafoutis
“A great low-sugar treat”
submitted by Eleanor Teverino
4 large eggs
1/2-cup plus 2 Tbs. sugar (I use Truvia)
Pinch of salt
1/2-cup all-purpose flour (I use gluten-free flour)
1-1/4-cups milk
1 tsp vanilla extract
1 apple, peeled, quartered, and cored
1/2-cup raisins
1 Tbs unsalted butter plus more for baking dish
Confectioners sugar
Preheat oven to 400°. Butter a 10” tart dish or 9-1/2” pie plate. In a bowl, combine eggs, 1/2-cup sugar or sugar substitute, and salt, until well-mixed. Whisk in flour, milk, and vanilla.

Cut apple into thin slices. Place over bottom of dish in concentric circles. Gently pour egg mixture over apple. Scatter raisins over mixture.

Cut butter into small bits and sprinkle over the batter. Sprinkle 2 Tbsp. sugar on top.

Place dish on baking sheet and bake until puffed and golden brown around edges, 25 to 30 minutes. Cool on rack. Sprinkle with confectioners’ sugar.

Serve cut into wedges, at room temperature or chilled. Store in refrigerator. Serves 8.

Sugar-free Pie
“Easy, quick, awesome”
submitted by Susan Ellis
Graham cracker pie crust mix
1/2-cup butter, softened
1 can crushed pineapple (must be in its own juice)
2 boxes of your choice of sugar-free pudding
1 small container (8-oz.) sour cream
Stir butter into graham cracker mix. Line a pie pan with the crust. Drain pineapple and stir with sour cream into the pudding mix. Pour into pie crust. Top with fat-free whipped topping, if desired.

In Memory of
Philip Johnston III
April 20, 1956 – February 4, 2019

The North Lookout Mountain Fire Protection District (Mentone Fire Department) has lost one of its valuable members. Philip Johnston III, affectionately known in the department as “Coastie” due to his previous US Coast Guard career, passed away quietly on the 4th of February. Philip was one of the most reliable members, showing up at fire or accident scenes even in the nastiest of weather. Philip’s experience as a mechanic in the Coast Guard was also an asset to the Fire Department in truck maintenance. Coastie joined the Fire Department in 2016, after previously living in Lincoln, AL, and Winder GA, before moving to Mentone in April of 2016.

Philip was born in Birmingham on April 20, 1956, attended Erwin High school and served a total of 22 years in the Coast Guard on three different ships. His most harrowing experience was on the West Wind, when blue ice ripped open the hull of his ship! He joked that the worst weather we have in Mentone was nothing compared to what he had seen on a Coast Guard icebreaker in the Antarctic, when a warm day was -40°!

Philip married his wife Patey in October 2005, after they met on Match.com. Patey says it was “love at first sight.” Philip is survived by his wife, Patey, three sons, and two stepchildren. His hobby was collecting anything related to lighthouses. Patey related that he loved God, Country, the Fire Department, and family in that order.

All the members of the Valley Head and Mentone Fire Departments will miss him. To Philip, they say, “We’ll take it from here, Coastie!”

Mentone Wedding Chapel
Candle Light Ceremonies
Musical Selections
Flowers, Reception, Lodging, Limousine
Nestled in the woods atop Lookout Mountain, near Mentone, Alabama, this quaint little chapel is surrounded by ferns, forest and flowers. The chapel is a scaled version of traditional Appalachian churches of days gone by. Stained glass windows filtering soft forest sunrays and soft organ music accent an ambiance fitting the wedding ceremony. Inside, wooden pews will seat approximately 60 guests.

Linda Patterson, owner of the chapel, said the idea for it began with a bell, and now that bell rings as newlyweds exit the door of the chapel.

The Little Book of Hygge: Danish Secrets of Happy Living by Meik Wiking (William Morrow, 2017)

Book Review by Anne McLeod

The Danish concept of “hygge” found its way across the Atlantic a few years ago, taking wing on social media and popping up in American books and magazines. Hygge, pronounced “hoo-ga,” is one of the things that author Meik Wiking, CEO of the Happiness Research Institute in Copenhagen, credits with making Denmark one of the happiest countries on earth.

Yes, cold, dark, highly taxed Denmark. People love it there because of, well, hygge. According to Wiking, “Hygge is about an atmosphere and an experience, rather than about things. It is about being with the people we love. A feeling of home. A feeling that we are safe, that we are shielded from the world and allow ourselves to let our guard down.”

Candles, hot chocolate, wooly sweaters, fireplaces, and fuzzy throws may come into play but what makes a moment hyggeligt (the adjective form of the word) is the presence of friends in this comfortable and cozy atmosphere. This element of sociability elevates hygge from a superficial lifestyle choice to a cultural construct that strengthens the fabric of society. Wiking guides the reader through the Danish experience of community during hyggeligt, while also describing foods (cake, bread, coffee), clothes (sweaters, scarves), and activities (casual dinners, barbecues, family movie nights) that add to those experiences.

Does any of this feel a bit familiar? It might. Since moving to Mentone, I’ve experienced hygge on a regular basis:

- Sunset at the brow on summer evenings combined with tai chi led by one of the circle of friends;
- The village Christmas tree lighting Cynthia arranged in front of the Inn, complete with cookies, hot cocoa, carols, and a visit from Santa (in Denmark, Christmas is one of the top ways to get your hygge on);
- Evenings with friends at the Mentone Market, especially Taco Tuesdays;
- Casual suppers at home when a friend or neighbor stopped by and stayed to enjoy whatever we were having, even if it’s nothing fancy;
- The knitting group on Tuesdays at the library where we knit or crochet those wooly scarves, sweaters, and socks to keep us and our loved ones warm, drink coffee or tea, and catch up on the latest news.

Experiences like these are why life here feels so right to me. Mentone is hyggeligt, a saving grace when the sun sets early and the wind is cold. That these experiences take place in an area with extraordinary natural beauty adds to the charm. Because life will always throw down some challenges, some of which will inevitably shake us to our core, hygge allows us to recognize and appreciate the moments that sustain us in good times and bad and to consciously recreate them when we can.

The Little Book of Hygge explains how to enjoy hygge year-round, and Wiking goes into some detail about how to sustain the mood during warmer months, but right now in North Alabama we have a few more weeks of winter to get through. So, channel your inner Dane, throw another log on the fire, and get hyggeligt with friends and family.

The Little Book of Hygge is available for checkout from the Moon Lake Community Library.

Anne McLeod is the librarian at Moon Lake Elementary School.

The Wish to Be Generous

by Wendell Berry

All that I serve will die, my delights, the flesh kindled from my flesh, garden and field, the silent lilies standing in the woods, the woods, the hill, the whole earth, all will burn in man's evil, or dwindle in its own age. Let the world bring on me the sleep of darkness without stars, so I may know my little light taken from me into the seed of the beginning and the end, so I may bow to mystery, and take my stand on the earth like a tree in a field, passing without haste or regret toward what will be, my life a patient willing descent into the grass.
Our decision to buy four alpacas was easy. They sold us on their charm from the moment we saw them at an alpaca farm in Wisconsin, where we were living in 2009. Once the purchase was complete, we knew two things: we’d have to find a home for them, and that home would be in the south. My husband Don was ready to retire, and I was about to complete my life-long dream of earning a college degree. It was time to move on.

In May, 2010, we began our search, traveling through North Carolina, South Carolina and northern Georgia. After three weeks and no prospects, we agreed to visit Don’s cousins back in Mentone, and go from there. Don was born in Valley Head, and we lived here in the ‘90s. We never expected to return, but as we headed up Lookout Mountain from Menlo, we were met with a most comforting feeling. We knew we were headed home. A day later, we found the five-acre property where Cutler Avenue meets West River Road and named it “Moonglow Alpaca Farm.” In September 2010, after the purchase of the farm, we packed our belongings and our alpacas, moved back to Mentone, and started our new life as alpaca farmers.

Alpacas, native to Peru, are often confused with llamas. Although they are both from the camelid family, their differences are obvious. Alpacas are bred as fiber producing animals and are half the size of their cousin llamas, which are bred as pack animals. The ears on a llama are banana-shaped, and their coats are much courser than that of an alpaca. Alpacas do spit at each other in a squabble over food, but for the most part, they don’t purposely spit at people.

Although alpacas are most often raised for breeding, we decided to make Moonglow a hobby farm, and raise ours as pets. They are gentle and easy to care for. They graze on grass in the summer and eat hay in the winter, along with a handful of alpaca grain, twice a day.

Because their fleece is so warm, we get them sheared once a year, in May, before the true heat of the summer sets in. Once sheared, they leave us with four to five pounds of fleece per alpaca. Alpaca fleece is highly prized for its numerous qualities. It is soft as cashmere, warmer than wool, and lacks lanolin, so is hypo-allergenic and not itchy. After the fleece is skirted and spun into yarn, it can be made into a variety of products including socks, scarves, sweaters, blankets and rugs.

Alpaca “beans” (manure) make quality plant and flower fertilizer. It can be used immediately without composting, doesn’t burn plants or flowers, and lacks the strong smell of other livestock manures.

The hardest part of being an alpaca farmer is losing them. Alpacas, we learned, are most susceptible to every livestock parasite imaginable. After three years we lost our first alpaca, our ribbon winning Paramount, to a severe case of anemia from Haemonchus contortus, or “Barber Pole”, a parasite that aggressively sucks the blood from an alpaca’s stomach. After this loss, we adopted two more alpaca from a farm in Gadsden. We then had five: Percussion, Diablo, Rebel, Pistoli and Crasher. Despite consistent parasite control by burning their “bean” piles and scooping twice a day, four years later we lost Pistoli to the same parasite that infected Paramount. Last summer, we lost Rebel to heat exhaustion after he fell asleep in one of the shelters under the hot July sun.

We invite the public to visit Percussion, Diablo and Crasher at Moonglow Alpaca Farm, 164 West River Road in Mentone, and discover the unique personalities of these three boys. They tend to melt hearts, as they did ours, with their liquid black eyes, long eyelashes, curious nature, and unique personalities. They welcome open hands filled with grain, and always smile for the camera.
